

HANDCUFFED and shackled, Bernard Curry is led by Hancock deputies James Ladner and Lathon Garriga from the Hancock County courthouse Tuesday to return to a Harrison county maximum security facility. Curry is on trial for the 1973 armed robbery murder of Pearlington grocer Forrest Summers.

Testimony begun in Curry murder trial

After four and one half hours and 44 prospective jurors, state prosecutors and defense attorney Joseph Benvenuti finally agreed on 12 jurors on Tuesday in the special venire which began hearing testimony in the murder trial of Bernard "Wildman" Curry Wednesday.

BULLETIN

The state of Mississippi and defense attorney Joseph Benvenuti rested their cases at 6 p.m. Wednesday following a day of testimony in the murder trial of Bernard Curry. Closing arguments will be heard Thursday morning when the jury reconvenes at 9 a.m.

The all white, all male jury was finally settled on at 5:30 p.m. after consuming the better part of the day Tuesday. The two alternates are the only females seated in the jury box. Jury selection began at 11:30 a.m. Monday in the trial of Curry who is accused of the armed robbery murder of Forrest Summers, a Pearlington grocer, Aug. 31, 1973.

The trial of a second defendant in the case, Alfred Thomas, has been set for Oct. 21. This will be the second trial for Thomas, whose first trial ended in a mistrial last July. Thomas is represented by attorney Max Mercer.

A prompt motion for a mistrial Tuesday by Benvenuti was overturned by presiding Judge Ruble Griffin.

Benvenuti made a motion for the mistrial after the state's district attorney Albert Nacaise referred to the potential jurors in his address by the defendant's nickname "wildman". Judge Griffin in overruling the motion cautioned the D. A. about use of any nicknames and told the jury to disregard the reference.

Opening arguments were scheduled for Wednesday morning in the trial. Chief witnesses for the state in the trial are the deceased victim's wife, Mrs. Forrest Summers; Mrs. Eula Lee Carver, Mrs. Grace Pope, and Isaac Oliver.

DeMetz avoiding court battle with Bond

Long Beach City Attorney Harold DeMetz said Tuesday night that he will go to court only as a last resort to stop Bond Paving Company from unloading slag in Long Beach. DeMetz, who was asked two weeks ago by the city council to take the necessary legal action to remove the Gulfport-based company, said that "the trouble with too many lawyers is that they are too willing to go to court." DeMetz said that, as far as he is concerned, Bond is cooperating with him in good faith, and therefore he (DeMetz) sees no reason to bring him to court.

OTASCO holds dual openings

Two new OTASCO stores will hold simultaneous Grand Openings in the area on October 17, 18 and 19. The new units are located in Our Shopping Center in Waveland and Grant Plaza in Ocean Springs.

Customers and visitors will be able to register for some valuable prizes including several shopping sprees valued at $600 in merchandise. Also, useful souvenirs will be given to all who visit the new stores on opening days.

The manager of the store in Waveland is Terry Griffin. His assistant manager is Ron Griffin. Griffin comes to Waveland from an OTASCO store in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Boyte has transferred from Montgomery, Alabama.

The manager at the Grant Plaza store is Clark Erwin who comes to the area from Hammond, Louisiana. His assistant will be Bill Morrow who was assistant manager at the OTASCO store in Murray, Kentucky.

OTASCO is headquartered in Tulsa and operates more than 600 stores serving 13 Southern and Midwestern states. 1974 marks the firm's 56th year in business.

Bond Paving Co. of Gulfport has a lease from the railroad company to operate near the intersection of Railroad Ave. and Jeff Davis in Long Beach.

DeMetz added that the reason Bond has been unloading the slag in Long Beach and not in Gulfport is that it is cheaper to operate in Long Beach. This apparently refutes the contention of one of the Long Beach aldermen that Bond had been run out of Gulfport.

On Monday Mayor Sam Maxwell said that he did not understand why Bond Paving Co. was unloading slag in Long Beach because Bond has spurs on his company's property which would serve the same purpose.

As of Wednesday morning, Bond was unavailable for comment.

Merchants north of the railroad tracks who had complained about the dust and the noise from Bond's unloading operations said that they were unwilling to sign a complaint. One of the merchants said that he had been complaining about the problem for almost two months and now the worst is over. He said that there was no question that the Bond operation had hurt his business, and he expressed disillusionment with city government.

Bond Paving Co. has not unloaded any slag at the Long Beach site since last Thursday.

Mayor encouraged by turnout

Long Beach Mayor Sam Maxwell, noting the large turnout at the city council meeting Tuesday night, said that it was encouraging to see so many people taking an interest in their city's government. "Many times," said the mayor, "there are only three people out there, and they're all from the press."

Senior citizens accounted for about 35 of the people present. A spokesman for the group said that they had accepted the invitation Maxwell extended to them earlier in the day when he attended their meeting.

Salvage of WWII vessels to commence at Port

Five World War II Liberty ships will be salvaged at the Port Bienville Industrial Park creating a $1.2 million payroll during the next 12 months as a result Monday of contract negotiations between Hancock County and a Tennessee salvage concern.

The proposal submitted to the supervisors by Wilson Webre, Hancock Port and Harbor director, allows the International Demolition and Salvage Company, Inc. of Nashville, Tenn. to operate on approximately 47 acres at Port Bienville under the terms of a lease purchase agreement.

A. J. Scardino, Jr., president of the Nashville based concern, told supervisors that the WW II vessels would be dismantled to the 11-foot water mark and the remaining hulls sunk off shore to create artificial fishing reefs.

The vessels were acquired from the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission by International under a successful bid of $50,000.

Scardino said that the ships, presently moored at Mobile, Ala. would be moved by tug boats to the company's Port Bienville site, with the first vessel arriving sometime within the next month.

Built towards the end of WW II, the Liberty ships displace 10,700 tons and have a beam width of 57 feet. Their hulls, when sunk on location, will create two artificial fishing reefs.

"After these ships are sunk they will be marked by lighted buoys," Scardino said. "The new fishing bank locations were established by the corps of Engineers and have been approved by all the various environmental and other governmental agencies concerned," he added.

Actual sinking of the stripped hulls will be under the direct supervision of the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission.

Scardino said "that the company's policy would be to hire locally as far as possible."

"We should begin hiring burners, riggers, salvage material workers and the like, in about two weeks," he said.

International will pay a monthly rental of $3,000 per acre for the 47 acre lot with an option to purchase the property at $4,000 per acre later if the firm is able to obtain further vessels for salvage.

Ninety percent of the rental fee would be placed toward the purchase price.

Webre told supervisors Monday that the enterprise represented a great boon to Hancock County, providing employment for approximately 50 persons. The company anticipates it will take one year to dismantle the first five ships.

"We are hoping," Scardino told supervisors, "that we will be successful in the future in obtaining more of these ships."

Gov. Bill Waller

Criminal Justice Comm. attacks state wide crime

Governor Bill Waller announced this week the establishment of the Mississippi Criminal Justice Standards Commission, which will be responsible for developing a statewide strategy for crime prevention and reduction.

The Governor said, "The matters of the Criminal Justice system - law enforcement, the courts, our corrections facilities, and other components - are close to the everyday lives of all of our people. The goal of this Commission, will be to coordinate the efforts of State government and the efforts of the general citizenry in improving the administration of justice in Mississippi."

The Governor said that Albert Nacaise, district attorney for the Second Judicial District on the Gulf Coast, has been appointed chairman of the Commission.

Also serving on the Commission from Harrison County are Judge Lawrence Semski, Family Court Judge; Earl Riley, executive director of Miss. Gulf Coast Crime Commission and Ernest Melvin, president of the Harrison County board of supervisors.

Waller said, "Reduction and prevention of crime is everybody's business, thus, we have gone to great lengths to make this probably the most broadly based and widely representative commission established by State government."

The Governor said the Commission "shall have the tasks of studying the Criminal Justice system and its effect on crime rates, developing standards for the operation of the Criminal Justice system which are aimed at the reduction of crime, and assisting in the implementation of those standards." He said that the activities of the Commission would be coordinated through the Division of Law Enforcement Assistance, Office of the Governor (DLEA). Waller said the Commission would be funded by a $300,000 Federal grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which would be matched by $33,000 from the Mississippi DLEA budget.

Bill Grissett, DLEA Director, said the Commission would be provided staff support by his office. He said that Robert Alsbury, DLEA Special WHAT'S MORE EXCITING than a county fair? Livestock, horse show, home and handcraft exhibits, good things to eat and drink and, naturally, a carnival with bright lights and rides and "step right up and try your luck ..." booths. The ladies above are setting up exhibits in the National Guard Armory for the Hancock County Fair and Livestock Show, now in progress at the fairgrounds in Bay St. Louis. Fair ends Saturday.

Expanded services available at Coast Mental Health Center

U.S. Congressman Trent Lott and Gulfport Mayor C. L. Bullock were among guest speakers Sunday at the dedication of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center.

Lott praised the efforts of those who worked to make the center a reality by saying that their new facility will provide the Gulf Coast with "the kind of humanitarian activities that make people believe in others as well as in themselves." He said that, although 62 percent of the center's cost was federally funded, the new center will be under "local control and local support."

Lott, speaking to over 100 guests, also said that the simple way to stop inflation is to cut federal spending but added that he will work to keep the mental health programs from being cut off the list of federal expenditures.

Mayor Bullock, who had owned some of the property that the new center is located on, congratulated the organizers of the center for their achievements and added, "We must come to accept that mental illness is just as real as physical illness."

The $585,000 center, which is located across the street from Gulfport Memorial Hospital, will service the people of Hancock, Harrison, Stone, and Pearl River counties. Among the many services that the center will offer will be a worry clinic for women and programs in alcohol and drug misuse.

Dr. Kinsey Stewart, director of the center, dedicated the "library" to the memory of Dr. George M. Wilson who was actively involved in the development of mental health services for the Gulf Coast area; and he presented a plaque to Mrs. Jennelle Wilson, Dr.

Wilson's widow.

Other speakers at the dedication ceremony were Ernest Melvin, president of the Harrison County board of supervisors and W. R. Burton, administrator of the Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

Presiding over the dedication ceremony was John Dees, chairman of the Region 13 Commission for mental health and mental retardation.

Man charged with murder

Lorenzen Wainwright, 74, has been charged with murder and is held without bond in the Hancock County jail in connection with the shooting death of a neighbor, Joseph Cospelich.

Hancock sheriff's deputies arrested Wainwright shortly after midnight Saturday in his Bayou Lacroix home after a call that Cospelich, 34, had been shot to death in an argument.

According to Chief Deputy Lathon Garriga, Wainwright shot Cospelich in the chest and stomach with a .22 calibre pistol. Cospelich apparently died instantly.

No preliminary hearing has been set on the case. Investigating officers were, besides Garriga, Sheriff Sylvan Ladner, Deputy Robert Tartavouille, Aux. Deputy Leo Woods.

WILLIE KING, 44, was booked at Hancock County Jail for driving under the influence, driving with no license, and having improper car tags after his 1966 Mercury ran head-on into a bridge on Highway 603 about a half mile south of Kila. The accident occurred about 10 pm October 9. King's son, Ronnie, aged three, was asleep in the back seat of the car. He was taken to Hancock General Hospital where he was admitted with a concussion. King was also admitted with cuts and bruises. Investigating officer was Highway Patrolman Clyde Hester.

APSL training

Pat Viguerie looks on as her son Jean, right, goes over a reading drill with another APSL student, Tom Herold. The APSL program, which is being used at Coast Episcopal High and Christ Episcopal Day School, is designed to help children who have difficulty reading because of perception problems.

APSL:

If it looks like Chinese, it may be dyslexia

(ED NOTE: This is the first in a three-part series dealing with the perception problems of a large percentage of school age children. The series describes methods of detection, and how the APSL program at Christ Episcopal Schools helps a child to deal with the problem.)

by David Pierson
Long Beach Bureau
Imagine that all our books, newspapers, magazines, and signs were printed in Chinese. And everyone around you could read it—everyone, except you. You wouldn't know where a sentence began or even how many of the funny-looking symbols make up a word. You could understand people when they talked to you, but you couldn't understand them if they wrote the same thing on paper.

Now, let's say that you went through school like this. Obviously, your grades would be very low. And, when day after day you would fare no better with all the strange symbols, you would come to the conclusion that you were stupid. You couldn't read, so you were stupid.

Well the fact is that you aren't stupid. You are the same reasonably intelligent person that you are right now.

But all this is make-believe, right? No! This is the real world for anywhere between 5-30 percent of our school-aged children. To these children the English language just as soon be written in Chinese.

These children understand the English language when it is spoken. In fact, they can do very well in oral tests at school. The problem is that these children are unable to decode the complex maze of alphabet symbols that represent the English language.

You see, we do not "read" the English language; we read symbols which represent the English language. However, some people are born with a disability which makes it hard or impossible to decode the symbols of our alphabet.

Well, you say, they should study harder. They do, but it is physically impossible for them to read because of a disability in the central nervous system. Nervous system? Yes, the nervous system is the avenue which all the sensory perceptions (such as what we see or taste or hear) take to reach the brain. If this system in some way functions differently, the child's sensory perceptions will reach the brain as something else. For example, they may see the "p" but it may reach the brain as a "b" or "d" or "q". The nervous system has jumbled or inverted the symbol in a way that makes it nearly impossible to read. They may read the word "cat", but it may reach the brain as "tac".

Well, you say, if their whole nervous system is messed-up, why waste the time on them? Obviously they are unteachable, stupid.

This is where Mrs. Joseph Viguerie, supervisor of a program that works with these children at Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis and Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian, would disagree. These children, she insists, are not stupid. In fact, the particular problems that these children have (called dyslexia and hyperkinesia) occur in many children of average to above average intelligence. "Some of these children," said Mrs. Viguerie, "are even bordering on genius. They have great potential."

The problem is how to reach these children? How can they get the proper sensory perceptions that will enable them to read? Remember, we are talking about what may be a problem in one of every four children.

Since these children cannot rely on their visual sensory perceptions, they must be taught the alphabet symbols by another means of sensory perception, such as the sense of touch. The APSL (Alphabetic-Phonetic Structural-Linguistic) program uses a touch method called "tactile transference" to achieve this goal. The tutor guides the child's finger over a rough surface, forming the different letters. "Soon" the child is capable of forming letters without the help of the tutor. Then the same process is used to spell words. It is a tedious but nonetheless rewarding method because the child is learning to read. The tutor makes the child define what each word means as they go over it so the child will comprehend what he is reading.

Many children with perception problems can read the words very well, but they do not understand what they are reading.

This APSL program began last January at Coast Episcopal High School and Christ Episcopal Day School. In only the first four months, the children in the program averaged a one year and two month improvement on their reading and comprehension tests. In other words, these children progressed at a rate almost four times faster than the normal progress of an average child.

Next week: Part two will examine the symptoms of dyslexia and hyperkinesia and also the side effects of perception problems and how they may lead to juvenile delinquency and drug abuse.

Gulf Islands

Water quality excellent

The water quality of Mississippi Sound along the beaches of Horn and Ship islands is excellent, according to Dr. David W. Cook, assistant director of Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and a microbiologist.

Preliminary findings of a water sampling program conducted by the Laboratory have been presented to Richard A. Stokes, park manager of the Gulf Islands National Seashore, of which the islands are a part. Doctor Cook indicated that the Laboratory would continue testing waters around the islands regularly for at least the next year.

The excellent rating of the water quality announced by the Ocean Springs Laboratory this week is based upon 12 weeks of sampling and testing water from locations extending from the mainland across the Sound and from locations of heavy recreational use, the western tip of Horn Island and the west and east ends of Ship Island. "Based upon our recorded data," Dr. Cook said, "levels of fecal coliform bacteria found far exceeded the standards prescribed for water considered safe for humans to swim in and use for water sports."

Personnel of the Laboratory Microbiology Section ran tests on the water samples to determine the presence of fecal coliform bacteria which are non-disease producing micro-organisms found in the fecal material of all warm-blooded animals.

"All of the stations located at least one mile from the mainland proved to have acceptable water quality. Stations within one-half mile of the mainland had much higher levels of fecal coliforms present," Doctor Cook noted.

Fecal coliform bacteria are used to indicate how much of this type pollution is present and water quality standards are often based upon this organism because many diseases such as typhoid fever, salmonellas, dysentery and infectious hepatitis may be transmitted through waters contaminated with fecal material.

Doctor Cook said he found little deterioration, if any, in the quality of the offshore waters of the Sound and of water surrounding the islands since similar testing was conducted in 1967-69. At that time, the Laboratory was testing water quality to find approved waters where oysters from reefs closed due to sewage contamination might be placed for depuration. This process of cleansing makes it possible to harvest and use oysters otherwise considered unsafe for consumption.

"You have to collect a lot of data to insure a reliable determination of water quality; a minimum of five samples from each location must be studied within a 30-day period. We have collected and tested about 230 samples in all of which 144 were taken off the beaches of Horn and Ship islands, Dr. Cook said.

A mythical bird?

Anyone could spot a unicorn in the garden right off but nobody could identify this strange looking bird that sat, motionless, on Mrs. Leonie Monti's garden fence recently for three hours. "He's marked like an owl, built like a crane and has a beak like I've never seen," she reported. Although friendly to people, he was camera shy. At the first click of photographer Jim Loaneano's camera, he disappeared into the thick underbrush. What was he?

First ever Governor's Conference on the Arts draws 400 luminaries

Approximately 400 Mississippians gathered in Jackson last month for a conference on the arts.

It was a first in many ways. It was the first Governor's Conference on the Arts. It was the first time Nancy Hanks, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, had visited Mississippi. It was the first time so many Mississippians had gathered to discuss the arts in their state with so many arts leaders of national prominence.

Governor Waller welcomed the participants, and Mississippi's Pulitzer prize-winning novelist, Eudora Welty, said in her keynote address, "I am keenly aware of the importance of this occasion. It is important to art, and it is important to people—to the people of Mississippi."

And I am aware that the life-saving help that has come to us through the state's arts council and from its great fountainhead, the National Endowment for the Arts, has been making possible in Mississippi an art that is already becoming, in a way that it's never been before, accessible to all of Mississippi."

Much of the significant work of the conference was accomplished during concurrent sessions where the participants, divided by areas of interest, met with national consultants and local resource leaders. Reports were later made to the entire conference.

The session on contemporary crafts concentrated on philosophical questions, setting goals and defining them. Ray Pierotti, president of the American Crafts Council, reporting on this session said, "It is our firm conviction in the Council that the artistically talented people should play a leading role in the development of our present day social structure."

Reporting on folk arts and folklore, Alan Jabbour of the National Endowment for the Arts, said, "Interest in folk culture in Mississippi ought to be part of a general movement within the various communities of Mississippi to bring together, to search out, to locate, all of their resources, all of their expressive life, and to celebrate it together."

L. N. Randolph of the National Endowment reported that his session on Literature wanted to put writers to work, interest children in writing, and build an audience for literature.

The session on music discussed the particular character of Mississippi as an agrarian area according to Walter Anderson, director of the Endowment's music program. He suggested that perhaps the Endowment should consider this fact.

The session on visual arts with Bill Lacey of the National Endowment as consultant focused on visual environment. Statement of architect Tom Biggs set the tone: "From seeing, the next step is caring; and from caring, comes action and change."

The theatre and dance group recommended that the following be done: establish fulltime consultants on dance and theatre in the state department of education; upgrade the quality of local performers and designers; increase the number of workshops and residences; create and expand school programs in theatre and dance; relax eligibility requirements of the Endowment's theatre program so that Mississippi theatres can receive support; establish a dance therapy program in the state.

In her address to the conference, Endowment chairman Nancy Hanks pointed out the remarkable strides that have been made in Mississippi, particularly in bringing the arts into the schools.

"It is our belief at the Endowment that this concept will be broadened. As the arts are involved... in celebrating the Nation's bicentennial we hope that strong links will be created that will never be broken. Links that will bring the arts to the people where they live."

Bay Little Theatre offers champagne and Mark Twain

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is offering a special fundraising performance of "An Evening With Mark Twain" Saturday, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m. at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

The two-act dramatic monologue will be followed by a gala supper.

Mr. J. D. Drake plays the role of the great American writer, wit and raconteur. Mr. Drake has earned acclaim in his part at various performances on the Coast. Although Mr. Drake is the tennis professional at Tennis, the new racquet club in Gulfport, he holds degrees in literature and is a master of his material.

A supper of champagne and sandwiches will be served on stage following the performance. Donations for the evening will be $5 per person.

Contributions carry message

In tribute to Mrs. Gerald Ford's recent bout with cancer, and in light of the Ford's request for contributions to the American Cancer Society, the Society is urging the public to take advantage of a wonderful opportunity to strike a blow at this dread disease.

Contributions may be sent to the ACS, Mississippi Division, 345 North Main Plaza, Jackson, Miss. 39206. The Division will then send a letter to Mrs. Ford, wishing for a speedy recovery, and listing all of the people who have made a donation in her honor.

Governor declares Little Theatre Week

Governor William Waller is proclaiming the week of October 14-20 as Jackson Little Theatre Week. During that week the Jackson Little Theatre will be celebrating the opening of its 50th Anniversary Season. For fifty years the Little Theatre Players of Jackson have been serving the cultural appetites of Jackson and surrounding communities for live theatre.

In the early years, the Players performed under Mrs. S. Gordon Green, the organization's founder, at the Blind Institute and the Century Theatre. In 1932 they moved into the playhouse which was carefully erected for less than $3,000 at the corner of Carlisle and Whitworth. But a fire in 1961 destroyed the playhouse completely and the group was forced to seek temporary quarters at local high schools until the new building could be opened in 1963. Today, the corner of Carlisle and Whitworth is the site of a $350,000 structure: the Jackson Little Theatre seats 382, has excellent sight-lines and acoustics, and is one of the finest facilities in the South.

Over the years, hundreds of plays have been produced by the Little Theatre of Jackson, hundreds of actors and directors, scene designers, etc., have had the opportunity of developing their talents, and thousands have filled the audiences with laughter and tears.

By means of a grant from the Personnel Development Program of the Mississippi Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment of the Arts in Washington, a federal agency, the Little Theatre of Jackson now employs two full-time professional Managing Artists Directors, Tom Eagan and Bonita Chambers.

Season memberships in the Jackson Little Theatre are no longer limited by invitation only or to residents of Jackson as they once were. In this age, when people travel more than ever, the Jackson Little Theatre being central to the state is striving to enrich the lives of the citizens of all of Mississippi. Attendance at Little Theatre productions, moreover, is not limited to members of the organization, or season ticket holders. Individual tickets are being sold for each production. A Season Membership, nonetheless, at $15.00 still means quite a savings for those likely to attend all or nearly all of the six major productions scheduled for the 50th Season.

The season got underway October 14, with the opening of the whacky comedy-farce UTBU, which stands for Unhealthy to Be Unpleasant.

Comedy opens at Jeff Davis

This season the Jefferson Davis College Players will present Noel Coward's delightful comedy hit, "Blithe Spirit."

This hilarious tale of the occult witnesses the invasion of a quiet novelist's country home by an eccentric lady medium and two very vivacious ghosts.

Both sexy spirits claim the bewildered writer's affection and their supernatural antics are at times romantic, at times chilling, but always amusing. How our novelist manages to exorcise his unwanted houseguests creates a smashing conclusion you won't want to miss!

"Blithe Spirit", under the direction of Phil Lisotta, will be presented at 8 p.m. on the evenings of October 18 and 19. Tickets can be purchased by telephoning Jefferson Davis Campus 896-3355, extension 55.

MANAGER of the new Merchants Bank and Trust branch at our Shopping Center in Waveland is Mrs. Sherlyn Brelend. Banking services will be available Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., 2:30-4 p.m., and on Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

High prices, especially on footstuffs, are the principal concern these days of most people. A recent front page story in the Times Picayune reports to tell of people actually starving up-state in Choctaw county.

It's an admittedly serious time, but we wonder if the extreme phases of it - the starvation, for instance - are not partly brought on by people themselves. We as a people have never been noted for our frugality; the large sum of money in our collective savings accounts could easily be doubled if it, the people, really put our minds to it. To get a small idea of the money you could save, without greatly altering your present style of living, write down a list of the things you could actually do without or that could be substituted for by cheaper articles without affecting your well-being. We could eliminate cigarettes, some candy, once-a-week movies. We could cut way down on both hard and soft drinks, walk or use the phone for many near-by errands, cut out or get cheaper lotions and rinses and cosmetics of all kinds, "make do" for a few more times our present wearing apparel - - -

But why continue? You know better than we do what you can do without or with less' of. By watching those everlasting TV commercials, for once you can have fun by deciding which products or services you don't need, and how much money you can save on them. Remember the TV man who holds up the package of his cure-all and says: "I need not tell you..." and then proceeds to bore you with two minutes of superlatives about his hair tonic? Or the awful creature who threatens our civilization because he happens to get his shirt collar dirty?

The plight of the Choctaw county people without free food stamps is a distressing one.

Mrs. Eva Cummings of Ackerman describes the situation for her and her eight children: "I have no money in the bank. I have low blood pressure and a heart murmur. I had an operation in April for a cyst in my wrist for which I still owe $300". One of her children has sickle cell anemia, another must have special footwear. The family is subsisting on two meals a day - though from the menu she gives, the meals seem to have plenty of nourishment though not much variety in them. She doesn't list, however, the articles, above a bare substance level that the family buys.

AVOIDING ANOTHER GRAIN DRAIN

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called it a bureaucratic "misunderstanding."

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, admitting that "errors were made on both fronts", acknowledged that he himself had not been "firm enough" in his negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Whatever the cause, last week's surprise cancellation of a $500 million sale of U.S. grain to the Russians is the most significant agricultural development since the controversial Russian wheat deal of 1972. Above all else, it prevents a replay of that horrendous deal.

BYGONE DAYS

5 YEARS AGO...

A plaque from the citizens of the Miss. Gulf Coast was presented to Mayor Edward D'Gerolamo of the city of Kenner, Louisiana by Mayor Warren Carver of Bay St. Louis on Monday, October 13, 1969, at the City Hall in Kenner. The presentation was an expression of the deep appreciation of the prompt assistance rendered to the people of Bay St. Louis and the entire Gulf Coast by the citizens of Kenner.

10 YEARS AGO...

The county school system's old $30,000 debt to the board of supervisors was finally wiped clean off the books Monday when the supervisors voted to transfer that sum from the county school bond fund to the various 16th section principal funds from which the loans had been made.

25 YEARS AGO...

Gordon C. Romanoff, a U.S. mail clerk by profession, has been notified by the Civil Air Patrol in Washington, D.C., that he won second place in the recent puzzle contest and enclosed a check for $3,400, which included his bonus for promptness.

50 YEARS AGO...

Saturday night, the eve of the anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, marked the formal opening of the new Knights of Columbus hall and home building, recently completed on Main St.

As I've expressed many times, I have been extremely concerned over the 1972 wheat deal. It is said that the transaction cost the American taxpayers and consumers, in the neighborhood of $2 million in the nine months between July, 1972, and March, 1973.

Beyond that, however, the cost to the American consumer in higher meat and meat-based products brought about by higher grain prices is estimated to be at least $1.2 billion.

That, in itself, is reason enough to breathe a sign of relief over last week's action.

It all started when President Ford persuaded two exporters, Cook Industries, Inc., of Memphis, and Continental Grain Co. of New York City, to cancel the sale of $500 million worth of U.S. corn and wheat to the Russians. These firms agreed not to sign contracts until the Department of Agriculture made a recommendation based on the October U.S. corn crop.

It's a good thing too, since corn production is well below the 1973 levels because of drought and early frost.

One day later, the White House announced a "voluntary" plan that would require White House permission for all large grain export sales. The system of supervision will cover all large foreign sales of wheat, corn, sorghum, soybeans and soybean meal.

Under the plan, U.S. exporters will be asked to seek White House approval before contracting to sell more than 50,000 tons of a commodity to any country on a single day. Approval would also be required before they sell more than 100,000 tons of any commodity abroad during any given week. Now, while I'm always reluctant to endorse government controls of any kind, I don't hesitate to applaud these particular controls. It's simply a matter of looking after our own needs first.

What made the 1972 sale so frustrating for Americans was the fact that the Russians didn't even put up their own cash to buy the grain. They negotiated to purchase American grain on three-year credit terms provided by the American government!

You can ask any grain dealer in South Mississippi and he'll tell you the market went crazy after that 1972 sale. He'll also tell you that the American consumer is still feeling the effects.

For those reasons, I count last week's government intervention a definite advantage for the American people. I just hope the White House sticks to its guns.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

I took the liberty a few weeks ago to write a letter to you on the subject of law and traffic enforcement in Bay St. Louis, which was printed in your paper.

I appreciate the privilege of writing to you, and I would like to honor that privilege with a follow-up to the previously mentioned subject.

The letter which I wrote seemed to have stirred up a little discussion in our city. However, I am sorry to say that the situation is still in need of a remedy. No effective action from our city officials was taken toward this matter, resulting in a continuing and increasing hazard to the lives of all citizens who use our streets for methods of transportation. As for the lives of people who use our streets in an abusive manner, you're getting away with it now.

But what about tonight, tomorrow, or a week from tomorrow? How long do you feel you can drive in this reckless fashion?

Maybe you feel or even know that our local policemen won't slow you down. But, does the person in a car which you may possibly collide with while running a stop sign at an excessive speed know you're going to slow down? Does a child crossing a street know you're going to slow down? Does the person on a bicycle on the side of a road know you're going to slow down? The answer is no!

No one knows if or when you're going to slow down, and this is why the life of a safe driver, cautious bicyclist, or scared pedestrian is destined to tragedy. Sometime soon, such a tragic happening will occur, and I am deeply sorry to know that someone will suffer with agony, but why?

Why hasn't this abusive driver been pulled over by a policeman and given the proper citation for such violations? Why do people get away with not stopping completely at stop signs and not using proper turn signals?

Why do they get away with speeding and other reckless driving habits? It is because there is no one there to correct these drivers of their faults.

We, the citizens of Bay St. Louis, have the unquestionable right to ask our city officials why hasn't any progress and effective action been taken toward increasing the security of our lives on our streets in any way possible?

We elected you, the city officials, to assume the governing offices in this city so that you would function in such a manner which would be for the benefit of all citizens in Bay St. Louis, and not for your own personal gain, which undoubtedly has a strong affect on your not taking proper interest, concern, and action toward this situation.

Your neglect has proven none other than detrimental to the security of our lives and safety, and this should be the one and most important reason why proper investigative procedures and needed necessary improvements and changes be made immediately, and not just before election time.

If what I have stated in the preceding paragraphs has not changed the thoughts of our city officials, then I would like to remind them and the citizens of Bay St. Louis that our votes put the present officials in their respective offices, and if substantial progress is not achieved in the interest of this situation, our votes can also remove these officials from their positions in office.

Finally, I would like to add, excuses used for reasons why effective measures cannot be taken toward resolving our problem will not be accepted and forgotten this time.

Any and all measures of action taken by our city officials will be followed very closely, and any action not taken will not only show the lack of credibility of each person in office, but will also prove the sheer incapability of each official to function properly in his respective elected position in public office.

Sincerely yours,

Henry J. (Chip) Prevoul, Jr.
Bay St. Louis, Ms.

Dear Editor:

One of the letters you had about the Hancock County School Bond election said that there were some who would vote against them because they did not have confidence in one of the board members. If this is true, they are in fact voting against the children.

Board members are elected in the general election in November and there has been plenty of time to get proper information and petitions filed to elect the one you prefer.

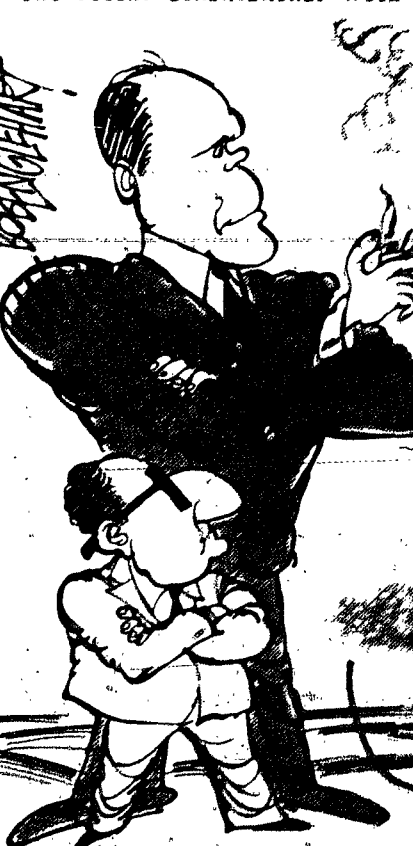

To vote against the Hancock County School Bond issue is like slapping your child because you are mad at the boss.

Vote Yes! this Saturday, the 19th.

Bay High 1974 Homecoming

Washington to see live nativity scene

It may be a bit early to be thinking of Christmas but already plans are under way here for something new and creative as an alternative for the Christmas Nativity Scene in the annual Pageant of Peace.

Recently, the U. S. Court of Appeals ruled to drop the traditional Nativity scene from the Pageant of Peace, citing excessive government entanglement with religion.

As a creative alternative, Senator Mark O. Hatfield along with a group of national celebrities and a handful of concerned Christians recently formed the Christian Service Corps Council and are sponsoring among other things the live re-enactment of the Nativity scene.

Last April the National Park Service issued a permit to the Council for the Washington Monument grounds to stage the full dress Christmas Nativity Pageant, complete with live animals and dignitaries to reenact "as authentically as possible" the sequence of events of Christ's entry into history. It is anticipated that as many as one million people will view the site in Washington and many more will see it on national television during the Christmas season.

The first year budget for the Pageant is $60,000 including camel rental, professionally produced soundtrack and lighting system, and the professional design and construction services.

Robert Meyers, president of the Christian Service Corps (the Peace Corps of the Church), says the Pageant is being funded by the tax deductible donations from the people of the United States.

"We want to return to the people the opportunity to present the greatest story known of peace and good will to all people," explained Meyers. "For this to happen it will be necessary to have Christmas NOW from Christian Americans."

Those who wish to help in launching the people's first annual Christmas Nativity Pageant may write to: Christian Service Corps Council, 1800 K Street NW, Suite 631, Washington, D.C. 20006.

The Council under Senator Hatfield's leadership, includes such notables as Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boone, Mamie Eisenhower, David and Julie Eisenhower, Sargeant and Mrs. Shriver, Washington Mayor Walter Washington and Mrs. Washington, Senator and Mrs. Howard Baker, Washington Redskins Coach and Mrs. George Allen.

Marching bands, pom pom girls, clowns and colorful floats kicked off another Homecoming Parade last Friday for Bay High School. There was even an invisible dog strutting to the rhythmic beat of the drums. The parade which began promptly at 2 p.m. on Ulman Ave. in front of the Bay Junior High School snaked down Second Ave., up Main Street, around Beach Boulevard and finally looped back down DeMontluzin where crowds on foot and bicycle participated in the glee. The parade disbanded at the Winn-Dixie Shopping Center where Tiger cheerleaders conducted a pep rally for the team. Tiger royalty was shown to the people on the special Queen's float. Altogether it was a homecoming parade that delighted the partisan crowd.

Coin Show scheduled for Nov. 30

The Greater Jackson Coin Show will be held at the Coliseum Ramada Inn November 30 - December 1 according to Henry Blum, general chairman. This is the second of two coin shows that will be regularly scheduled for Jackson on an annual basis. The MNA Coin Show held in the spring was a resounding success.

In addition to Mr. Blum the show officials include C. L. Savell of Braxton as exhibit chairman, Horace Whitfield, Box 9571, Jackson, Miss. 39206 as bourse chairman, and Ed Lofton, of Ridgeland as Publicity chairman.

Savell urges all young collectors to attend this show. He states that there will be a wide variety of numismatic and related material on exhibit. There will be no charge for admittance to either the bourse or exhibit area.

Officials of the show and exhibitors will be available to answer any questions from visitors. All exhibits will be non-competitive. Whitfield has already received numerous inquiries from dealers and will accept no more than a total of 31 applications. The dealers will be from Mississippi and most of the Southeastern states.

There will be dealers in gold coins, paper money, foreign and ancient coins, type coins, and also modern uncirculated coins. Any dealer interested in reserving a table should immediately write Mr. Whitfield.

Rising costs are in the news every day. The May 1974 consumer price index shows a 63% increase since 1960 in this cost of living indicator. Yet overall Mississippi telephone rates - including charges for local service and long distance calls - have only increased 16% since 1960. That's only about 1/4 as much as the consumer price index increase.

Your phone is probably one of the most economical services you have in your home. It helps you coordinate plans without the cost or time of going in person. And one of our continuing goals at South Central Bell is to bring all our customers the best service at the lowest price possible.

This month, telephone people will be joining other Mississippians in observing three important occasions.

The week of October 6 through 12 was National Fire Prevention Week. Your fire departments along the coast ask your continuing help in preventing fires by inspecting your home for fire hazards. Here are a few suggestions: Check electrical wiring, heating equipment, chimneys and vents to be sure they are in good condition. Common sense is the best fire prevention tip of all. Let's make sure we never give a fire a reason to start.

The purpose of National Newspaper Week, which was also October 6 through 12, was to celebrate one of our most valuable freedoms... freedom of the press, which is one of our basic guarantees of a free society. We can be proud of the contributions our local newspaper people make to our community. They provide us with a broad range of information for our own decision-making, whether it is about politics or a purchase. We always recognize the value of a free press.

The United Givers Fund campaign is also under way during October, in many areas of Mississippi. Volunteer campaign workers will be raising funds to keep community projects working. Your caller may even be one of our own South Central Bell people, working to be sure there's help for those who cannot help themselves.

If hunting is on your schedule this season, be safe. Carry your gun so the barrel points down; don't shoot until you've pinpointed your quarry; and if your prey happens to be perched on a telephone line, wait 'til it moves off. Good Hunting.

NON-CROPLAND WEED CONTROL

Herbicides may not replace mechanical means of controlling unwanted vegetation, but they do offer a wide variety of means of controlling vegetation where edgers and mowers cannot be conveniently used. In many cases herbicides will give longer lasting and more economical control.

Paraquat, cacodylic acid and weed oils are excellent as contact weed killers, killing only the plants sprayed. These materials work well for edging around buildings, walkways, shrubbery and other such areas. In many cases, atrazine, karmex or simazine can be added to prevent new annual weeds from emerging. All precautions and directions listed on the label should be followed to the letter when using any agricultural chemical.

DSMA and MSMA and dalapon are excellent grass herbicides. If a general knock-down of either annual or perennial grassy type plants is desired, then dalapon would be the choice. If sensitive plants are now nearby, 2,4-D can be added to the dalapon mixture to destroy most grasses and broadleaf weeds.

An effective, seldom used, material for a wide range of broadleaf and grassy weeds, including poison ivy, is amitrol. This herbicide can be combined with simazine or atrazine to give general control of emerged weeds as well as preemergence control. With this material there is less likelihood of damage to nearby plants.

PLANTING TREES

Tree planting time will soon be upon us, so here are some tips that may increase chances of survival for the trees you plant.

Dig the hole large enough for the natural spread of the roots. Loosen the soil in the bottom of hole. Plant the tree at the same depth it grew before transplanting.

While the tree is out of the ground, keep the roots moist. Anchor the tree by staking.

A good idea is to anchor the tree with wire threaded through a section of garden hose to prevent damaging the bark.

Wrap the trunk to lessen evaporation and for protection from sun scald. Wrap lower half of the trunk with burlap or tree wrap paper.

Prune one-third of the branches so roots will be able to feed the remaining top. Cut branches next to stem or trunk, but do not destroy the natural form of the tree.

Replace subsoil in the hole with good topsoil high in humus. Mulch the newly planted tree and water often. Mound soil around the tree to hold water.

LEGUMES FOR NITROGEN
Grow your own nitrogen by planting legumes in your grass pastures. Now is the season to plant. First either graze or clip the grass closely. Then plant the legumes. Some legumes will manufacture a maximum of 200 pounds of nitrogen per acre, providing most of the nitrogen needed by grasses.

Cassibry urges support of bill

All senior citizens in the state of Mississippi have been urged by State Senator Nap L. Cassibry of Gulfport to endorse and support his pre-filed bill 2083, which, if passed by the next session of the legislature, would reduce their auto license tag to one dollar per year. The bill, in its current form, would allow any resident, 65 years of age or older, to purchase their vehicle license plate for the sum of one dollar, regardless of make or model of motor vehicle. This proposed legislation is identical to and amends the present Mississippi law regarding issuance of such plates to disabled war veterans.

Cassibry was the chief speaker this week at the Long Beach Senior Citizens club at their covered dish dinner Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Long Beach. Over 70 persons attended the meeting.

The veteran state senator said he was proposing the legislation at this time because of the sagging economy and inflated prices. He stressed that our senior citizens badly need all of the financial assistance that the state of Mississippi can offer to those who are living on a fixed income with no opportunity to earn monies to meet rising living costs.

Cassibry said the proposed legislation would cost the state of Mississippi approximately two and a half million dollars. And this, he pointed out, was trivial to other planned expenditures around the state.

Cassibry, while urging all the Older Americans to support his bill, expressed displeasure with the Mississippi Council of Aging—whose sole purpose is to look out for the oldsters, for not taking action in behalf of the bill and endorsing it. Instead, the Council referred it to a sub-committee for additional study.

Cassibry asked the Long Beach Senior Citizens chapter to spearhead the drive to get other groups of Older Americans around the state to back and endorse the bill. It would limit one such motor vehicle plate or tag to one household. It would exempt all ad valorem and privilege taxes, and the license could not be transferable to any other person. The Long Beach members voted unanimously to support and endorse the bill.

Mrs. Jane Kennedy, director for the Area Wide Model Project for Older Americans, was a visitor at the luncheon. Other visitors include: Mrs. Byrd Cassibry, director of Public Relations for the Area Wide Model Project; the Rev. Peter Peterson, vicar, Saint Patrick's Episcopal Church; Mrs. Lawless Fountain, past president of the Biloxi Senior Citizens Club.

Foreign Mission Happening Monday

A highlight event of the Oct. 21 Foreign Missions Day at William Carey College is the Foreign Mission Happening for youth, young adults and Christian lay leaders in the Thomas Fine Arts auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

"We hope to pack a week of Ridgecrest or Glorieta Foreign Mission excitement into this one evening," commented a spokesman. Furloughing missionaries as well as newly appointed missionaries will be featured along with outstanding music.

Churches in south Mississippi are urged to provide bus and auto transportation to the Carey campus for the special program.

Seabees to build Center

Seabees from the 133rd Mobile Construction Bn. will build the Crippled Children Center in the Kiln, saving the Foundation some $30,000 in labor and construction costs, a Foundation spokesman said here Tuesday. The project will serve as a training exercise for the Seabee crews.

The Seabees, attached to the 20th Naval Const. Regiment, have already begun site survey work for the Center which will be located behind Annunciation Church.

Seabees will perform total construction work including all electrical, plumbing, exterior and interior work as well as dig a deep well. When complete and equipped, the Center will represent a $150,000 facility.

Construction for the 40 by 40 feet concrete block building is expected to begin some time in November, said Robert Himmelsbach, an official with the Crippled Children Foundation.

Another windfall has come in the form of a $32,000 grant from the Mississippi Regional Medical Program, an adjunct of the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant will be administered through the University of Mississippi, and will pay the salaries of the Center's physical therapist, Lorraine Gilber, and a part time trained recreational therapist.

Jack Gordy, assistant coordinator of the Miss. Regional Medical Program is credited with securing grant approval for the Foundation. Gordy is a son-in-law of Kiln resident Carl Moran, an active supporter of the Foundation. Miss Gilbert will begin in-home therapy Nov. 1 with the first group of children in the Hancock and Harrison counties area, using portable physical therapy equipment until the Center is completed. Miss Gilbert, who is a graduate licensed therapist has been associated with the State Dept. of Health working in a four-county area.

SEABEES who will construct the Crippled Children Center in the Kiln for the Crippled Children Foundation survey the site for preliminary preparation. Foundation president Dave Turner is at far right with his daughter, Shelli and another child.

People once said that if they turned their money when they heard the cuckoo singing, they'd have money until he came again.

Drug abuse program is announced

The Main Street United Methodist Church will present a drug abuse program Sunday, Oct. 20 during the Sunday School hour.

Beginning at 9:45 a.m., the program will be conducted by Hancock County Special Agent's Ronald Peterson and Paul Bernard. The program is for the general public, all ages and denominations are welcome.

Partners: facts of the current drug abuse situation will be discussed and a question and answer period will follow.

Australian oil production up

Crude oil production in Australia during fiscal 1973-74 was 145,685,000 barrels (389,137 barrels-day), an increase of 12.1 per cent over the previous year's figure. Production from Bass Strait at 130,667,000 barrels (327,992 barrels-day) or 89.7 per cent of total Australian production.

William Carey College to host Great Foreign Mission Happening

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. October 21, the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention will unite with William Carey College in presenting an exciting evening of colorful Foreign Mission emphasis. The 100 voice choir of the campus BSU will open the event with a parade of nations carrying handsome flags from around the world.

Dr. Sam DeBord, director of furloughing missionaries and support services for the Foreign Mission Board, will direct the activities. Dr. DeBord is from the Convention's Foreign Mission headquarters in Richmond, Virginia. Also from Richmond will be Dr. DeBord's associate, Miss Edna Frances Dawkins, and Dr. James Belote, area secretary for East Asia. Also coming to Hattiesburg representing the Foreign Mission Board Staff in Atlanta will be Dr. and Mrs. Ralph West, former missionaries to Nigeria, West Africa.

Foreign missionaries who will be featured on the evening's program include Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Bethea of East Africa; Dr. and Mrs. Tom Kent, medical missionaries to Panama; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Olive, Philippines; Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs, Middle America; Dr. and Mrs. Harry Raley, Taiwan; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Redmon from Costa Rica. Earlier in the day the list will also include Lewis Myers, furloughing missionary from Viet Nam.

The evening program will feature the William Carey College Chorus under the direction of Dr. Donald Winters, dean of the School of Music. Several "missionary kids" studying on the William Carey College campus will be included in the program.

Trustees attend assembly

Mrs. Mona Santiago, administrator of Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis with members of the hospital board joined hospital trustees from more than 100 Mississippi institutions in Jackson Oct. 16 for the annual assembly of the Miss. Assn. of Hospital Governing Boards.

Presiding officer was William H. Bizzell, group president and board chairman for Bolivar County Hospital, Cleveland.

Program personnel from Jackson included Franklin D. Pollard, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Foster L. Fowler, retired director of the Mississippi Commission on Hospital Care.

Issues discussed at the meeting centered on labor relations, federal legislation, conflicts of interest, and trustee responsibilities.

Attending from Bay St. Louis were HGH board president Dr. Charles Johnson and trustees Mrs. Ina Piazza and Conrad Maufrey.

Hancock County United Way

Girl Scouts are on the move

Hancock County Girl Scouts have been much on the move the past year. Local troops, being a portion of Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council, have participated in many Council activities.

A number of girls have attended Brownie and Junior week ends coordinated and directed by Mrs. Alice Holmes of Bay St. Louis. Throughout the three days trips the girls were guided through a series of learning groups from water activities to Arts and Crafts to Nature Study.

Adult leaders have been as active as the girls participating in Council as well as neighborhood sponsored events. They have attended training in the Girl Scout Program and annual council meetings.

Representing the Hancock County area are two members of the board of directors, the first and only Life Member of the board, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Sr., and first vice-president Mrs. Lucien Gex.

The membership in the Hancock County area has more than doubled in the past four years which would not have been possible without cooperation from both the volunteers of the area and the United Way.

Gulf Pines Council is partially financed by the United Way throughout the 15 county area.

Within the community the troops have been busy with many services - projects, ranging from ecology, working with hospitals, homes for the elderly and handicapped children and adopting shut-ins. Girls work every election day so that voters can leave their children in a vote. Knowing what the girls are doing for the community makes one wonder when they have time for troop programs. They make time.

They not only have time to plan their program, they are sure it includes plenty of time to camp, go on numerous field trips and of course sell cookies to support Camp Iti Kana.

These girls and all the community have built a camp they can be proud of - belonging to the Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council - 339 acres in southern Forrest County. Scouts enjoy the facility all year round in addition to special events and six weeks of resident camping in the summer.

All these activities help the aims of Girl Scouting "to promote the qualities of truth, loyalty, helpfulness, friendliness, courtesy, purity, kindness, obedience, cheerfulness, thriftiness, and kindred virtues among girls, as a preparation for their responsibilities in the home and for service to the community, to direct and coordinate the Girl Scout movement in the United States, and to fix and maintain standards for the movement which will inspire the rising generation with the highest ideals of character, patriotism, conduct, and attainment, which purposes shall be nonsectarian, non-political and not for pecuniary profit." This is Girl Scouting.

Iti Kana completion seen

Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council will observe another milestone in its 14 year history Sunday, when ceremonies at Camp Iti Kana will mark the completion of facilities conceived in the camp's Master Plan which began in 1966.

The public is invited to join with Girl Scouts, adult volunteers and Council representatives in paying tribute to those who made the camp development possible.

The ceremonies, beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon, will be followed by informal tours of the camp facilities and a reception in the L. O. Crosby Dining Hall. Iti Kana is within a short driving distance from all areas of the 15 county area of South Mississippi. It is located near Maxie, on Highway 13, just west of U.S. Highway 49.

From its inception as an idea, Camp Iti Kana has been unique. Funds for purchasing the property were not readily available. Foresighted Council board members, and others on Finance and Program committees utilized the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale money to purchase the 339 acres of rolling hills for the campsite. It is considered nationally to be among the top three camps for Girl Scouts.

Iti Kana is an area of great natural beauty. Its facilities are well designed and planned yet fit appropriately into their natural surroundings of towering pines and groves of dogwood. The camp is enjoyed year round by several thousand young girls. Its construction has been made possible through contributions of private citizens, business, industry and others in the fifteen county area of the Council. The Seabees have provided a volunteer labor force for most of the construction.

Many Americans want super beds

An independent study has revealed that nearly 50 per cent of the under-35 age group (including brides and young singles) selected super-size bedding, either king size or queen size.

OTASCO traces half century of growth

In 1918, the average American was just discovering that the automobile was here to stay. World War I was drawing to a close. Far removed, in Oklahoma, three brothers pooled their entire resources of $2,000 to open a small store.

From that inauspicious store opening more than 50 years ago in Northeastern Oklahoma came the seed that grew into one of the nation's largest home and auto chains, OTASCO.

OTASCO's growth and efficient business operation attracted the attention of financial expert Meshulam Riklis, and in 1960 a merger brought OTASCO into the McCrory Corporation, the national retailing chain which Riklis had forged into a part of his multi-million dollar empire.

Within two years, McCrory also acquired the Economy Auto Stores based in Atlanta, Georgia, and immediately turned over its operation to OTASCO. The Economy Auto Stores are now known as the OTASCO-Atlanta Division. With the financial backing of the McCrory Corporation, OTASCO has moved into another period of accelerated expansion, strengthening its position as the giant of the home and auto field in the Midwest, South and Southeast.

Now more than 50 years in business - OTASCO and the OTASCO-Atlanta Division stretches across 13 states, employing more than 2,000 persons in 224 company-owned stores and franchising 385 associate stores under identical policies and procedures. OTASCO stores are located in the states of Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri, Mississippi, Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Alabama...also Georgia and South Carolina.

The OTASCO story truly begins in 1906 when Herman and Maurice Sanditen, two young Lithuanian farm boys, arrived in the United States with 20 marks ($5 American money) in their pockets.

In exchange for their passage, the boys spent two years working in a general store owned by their father's second cousin in St. Stephens, S.C., struggling to learn the language and customs of their new home. Nine years later, however, Maurice had become a businessman himself, operating a suburban grocery store in Nashville, Tennessee. He was joined by a third brother, Sam, who had come to America.

Sam Sanditen moved to Oklahoma in 1916, taking a job as a helper in a tire store. His glowing accounts of the opportunities in the new state soon persuaded older brother, Maurice, to sell his grocery store and move to Okmulgee, where brother Herman joined them.

In February of 1918, the three brothers formed a partnership and opened the first OTASCO store in Okmulgee in a small brick building with a gas pump at the side. The business prospered so rapidly that in just three years, a second store was opened in Henryetta, Oklahoma, followed by expansion into Tulsa; Fort Smith, Arkansas; and Shawnee, Oklahoma. During this expansion period, the firm's headquarters were moved to Tulsa where they are today.

From 1921 to 1948 while the nation's economy staggered under two depressions, the Kansas-Oklahoma dust bowl, wartime shortages and gasoline rationing, OTASCO continued its startling growth. Playing a large part in this success was the creation of a system of independently owned franchised associate stores in 1935, which by 1948 had grown to a total of 140 stores across a 4-state area.

"The success of our business has always been very firmly based on the policy set down by our founders...a policy of offering honest values at fair prices," comments Julius Sanditen, presently Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the firm. "From the very beginning," says Sanditen, "this Company has followed the principles of the Golden Rule, treating everyone...customer, supplier, employee...alike, as we would like to be treated ourselves."

It is a policy that has paid rich dividends for the Oklahoma-based organization. As early as 1923, when the Company was only 5 years old, the owners set up a program of enabling employees to share in the profits. An innovation in retail merchandising at that time, employee benefits have since expanded to include medical and life insurance, a retirement trust fund, college scholarships and wedding and baby bonuses, plus numerous other lucrative benefits.

As OTASCO steadily increases its number of outlets in the sprawling South-Southeast territory, close attention has been paid to improving service and distribution facilities. The present Tulsa headquarters which was occupied in December of 1970 is an office and warehouse complex which contains over 470,000 sq. ft. on a 28-acre tract of land. Warehouses are also located in Little Rock, Arkansas, and in Atlanta, Georgia. The firm opened a fourth warehouse in Meridian, Mississippi, in the spring of 1973.

In addition to Julius Sanditen (Chairman and Chief Executive Officer), another brother is also actively engaged in the business. Ely Sanditen, who started with the first store in Okmulgee in 1929 is now Chairman of the Executive Committee. Sam Sanditen died in 1939 and brother Maurice passed away in May of 1970 at the age of 79. Herman died in December 1971, age 82.

"For a business to survive and prosper in today's fiercely competitive marketplace, more is required than ever before," said OTASCO president. "We can only believe that our Golden Rule policy has been responsible for our more than half a century history," he concluded.

GO TO THE POLLS SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, AND VOTE FOR THE BOND ISSUE.

University educators endorse Hancock School bond issue

Hancock County Voters are again asked for their vote to support our Bond Issue. Your vote is very badly needed for the success of the projects of the issue. Our schools are growing in enrollment yearly and additional facilities are continuously needed.

The Additional Cost to your Present Taxes will be approximately:

VALUE	ASSESSMENT	TAX	TOTAL PAYMENT
$ 4,000	15% = $ 600	5 mills	$ 3.00
6,000	15% = 900	5 mills	4.50
8,000	15% = 1,200	5 mills	6.00
10,000	15% = 1,500	5 mills	7.50
15,000	15% = 2,250	5 mills	11.25
20,000	15% = 3,000	5 mills	15.00
25,000	15% = 3,750	5 mills	18.75
30,000	15% = 4,500	5 mills	22.50

We feel that this amount of 5 mills will be used for about 3 years and then possibly reduced. A vote for this bond issue is a vote for the education of the future generations of Hancock County.

All voters over 65 and 100% Disabled Veterans on 160 acres or less are exempt from this tax.

Stennis discounts possibility of another 'great depression'

Admitting that the nation is in the midst of a serious recession, Senator John C. Stennis today discounted the possibility of another Great Depression.

"We have enough fuel and food to get along, and we should be thankful because we are the only major nation that can say this," Stennis said. However, the Mississippi Senator said that "we are beginning to experience some profound changes in the American way of life."

Stennis explained that the "situation in our nation was different in the Great Depression of the 1930's" and he listed several safeguards that did not exist at that time. Stennis reminded members of the East Mississippi Electric

Justice

Projects Director, will head the staff which will assist the Commission.

Alsbury said that the activities of the Commission will "mark the first time in our history that someone has actually stepped back and taken a look at the total Criminal Justice system. Before now, many efforts have been taken in the individual fields, such as police, courts, and corrections, but no one has attempted an evaluation of the total Criminal Justice system."

"The Commission will be analyzing present and future problems and needs, identifying goals for the Criminal Justice system, and setting operational standards and planning for implementation of these standards," Alsbury said.

Alsbury said that the Commission will utilize several resources in its operation. He noted that local public hearings would be held throughout the State to "generate grass root input into the solution of problems of our Criminal Justice system."

Alsbury said that the Commission will hold a Conference on October 21 and 22 at the Ramada Inn in Jackson.

Power Association that "unlike the 1930's deposits in banks and savings and loans are today insured," Stennis listed other "protections" against hardship and a full depression, such as Social Security, unemployment insurance, health insurance, and floor prices on farm products.

Turning his attention to record high interest rates, Stennis vowed that "small business and individuals cannot survive with 10 to 12 percent interest." In an effort to reduce interest rates by increasing bank deposits, Stennis advocated a "tax exemption on the first $1,000 of earnings on savings accounts. This would encourage more people to save and thereby increase the amount of money available for productive loans."

Blaming much of the rate of inflation on "high prices for imported oil that are set by foreign politics," Stennis revealed that the nation's bill for oil and coal has increased $34.4 billion in the last 12-month period. This was not for any additional amount of coal and oil. It was $34.4 billion extra for the same amount. Even with this "staggering increase," Stennis said, "we are relatively fortunate among the industrial nations because we must import only 16 percent of our oil. Japan imports all of its oil, and 95 percent of it comes from the Middle East. Western Europe depends on the Arab nations for 80 percent of its oil."

The mail goes through

Mrs. John Vorhaben of 713 Shannon Drive in Long Beach certainly has a right to complain about the postal service she received recently.

After being away from home most of Saturday, she returned around 6 p.m. to find her house ransacked and several items - including the color TV, her silverware, Stennis said that we are engaged in an "economic war over oil" in which the American farmer is both the victim and the major salvation.

As a practical example of oil's influence on food prices, Stennis pointed to nitrogen fertilizer and its climb from $103 per ton last year to its present average level of $247 per ton.

three cameras, and some clothes - gone.

However, the burglar did bring Mrs. Vorhaben's mail inside and lay it on the chair, a fine gesture from a burglar who had just made off with almost $800 worth of her belongings. And we complain about the postal service we get for a dime? Long Beach police are still investigating the burglary.

The upcoming bond issue election for Hancock County school improvements was endorsed by the 40-member team of educators conducting a school evaluation study of Hancock County schools last week.

Nicholas Fruge, coordinator of the evaluation group, told members of the county school board at a Tuesday meeting that the preliminary study report recommended another high school in the south section of the county, as well as additional classrooms and restrooms at Gulfview Elementary and Hancock North Central. Cafeteria facilities at both schools definitely need improvement, Dr. Fruge said.

Dr. Fruge who is assistant dean of the College of Education and Psychology at the University of Southern Mississippi, was coordinator of the study which brought educators from throughout southern Mississippi as well as locally for a 10-year evaluation of the school system.

Brother Lee Barker, principal of St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis served as chairman of the systemwide committee.

In a summation report submitted by the various committees working within the evaluation team, improvements in curriculum and administration were noted at all three county schools.

During the meeting, Marvin Carpenter, president of the Harrison County Association for Retarded Citizens, presented the mayor and the aldermen with a certificate thanking the city for the $2,000 grant it had given to the association.

The aldermen also accepted the land and personal tax poll.

Mrs. Mertz confronts Lott

by David Pierson
Long Beach Bureau

Claudia Mertz, an independent candidate for the fifth U.S. congressional seat, handed a letter to her opponent Rep. Trent Lott after a dedication ceremony in Gulfport Sunday.

Mrs. Mertz had stated earlier that she would confront Lott at the dedication ceremony of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center causing some staffers to fear that a confrontation would disrupt the ceremony.

Mrs. Mertz, however, waited until after the ceremony to present Lott with the letter that said: "This hand delivered letter is the most discreet way I could think of to personally express my sincere belief that you are short-changing, and underestimating, the people of South Mississippi by ignoring my challenge to T.V. debates."

Lott received the letter and told her, "I want to tell you how much I appreciate the manner in which you have done this." He said that he did not see a debate as being practical, but he did say that he assumes that the two of them will eventually find themselves on a program together.

In the letter, Mrs. Mertz questioned Lott's "ability to represent the working people of this district who are suffering while you (Lott) vote against their interests." She wrote that the people "have had enough of the Nixon-Agnew-Lott Team which, to this day, you have not made a clean break from."

The Columbus Day motif was used with each table having as a centerpiece the Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria (all made out of buddy poppies) sailing toward an Indian village. Coast D.A.R. represented at tea

Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Robert Bird of Long Beach were in attendance Tuesday at a Bicentennial Tea given in Roundland by the William Dunbar Chapter of the Mississippi Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Natchez and honoring Mrs. Max L. Pharr, State Regent. Historic Roundland was built in 1817.

On Wednesday Mmes. Pilet and Bird attended a luncheon and took part in the Rosalie Day activities. Rosalie, the historic antebellum home owned by the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution stands on grounds established as the first fort on the Mississippi River and was named Rosalie for the Duchess de Pontchartrain. Here in 1729 French citizens and priests were massacred by the Natchez Indians.

On Fort Rosalie hill, back of the mansion, the United Sales Flag was raised for the first time over Mississippi soil on March 30, 1798 by Captain Isaac Guion. The mansion Rosalie was built by Peter Little 1820-23 and later was purchased by Andrew Wilson. Furnishings bought in 1858 are still in the house. The white picket fence built of heart cypress more than a century ago has no nails in its entire structure. Pickets are fitted into slots in the walls.

The beautiful mirrors in the double parlor were buried in the hillside when the Federal Army threatened (and later occupied) Natchez.

Double ring ceremony unites couple

Miss Diane Louise Bourgeois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Francis Bourgeois of Waveland, Miss., and Daniel Walter Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrew Perkins, also of Waveland, exchanged wedding vows October 5, at St. Clare Catholic Church, Waveland.

Rev. George Broussard, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Mildred Means, organist, played the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of white satin fashioned with a detachable lace train. The lace bodice was re-embroidered in seed pearls. Her elbow length veil of illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath interspersed with white satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Linda Sue Bourgeois was maid of honor.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL PERKINS

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathryn Ann Arnold, Miss Lynette Marie Perkins, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Charles R. Bourgeois, sister-in-law of the bride. Miss Barbara Ann Bourgeois, niece of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid.

They wore pastel blue floor length dresses and carried baskets of blue carnations and miniature dried flowers.

Bobby Joseph Perkins was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Elmer Maki Jr., Bruce Bourgeois Jr., and Joseph Schultz, cousin of the bride. Brock Joseph Godwin cousin of the groom, was junior groomsman. Ushers were Robert Duffie, David Buford, Mark Craig and Monnie Breland.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Travis Hall, Waveland. Mrs. Bourgeois received their guests wearing a blue double knit princess style dress with matching jacket.

The mother of the groom chose a blue double knit A-line dress. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

The bride's table, overlaid with a blue and white satin cloth trimmed with a net ruffle, was centered with a four-tiered cake decorated with pale blue flowers and white doves.

Mrs. W. Hayes Wilt, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake table and Miss Deborah Netto kept the guest register.

For her wedding trip to Pensacola, Fla., the bride chose a two-piece suit of beige, red and blue print knit. A corsage of red sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Waveland.

The program, presented by Mrs. T. W. Culbreath of Gulfport, a nationally accredited flower show judge, was a demonstration of artistic design and the use of dried materials in arrangements. Mrs. Culbreath concluded with a show of the effectiveness of vari-colored lights on a screen behind her designs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Weston, the other founder and an honored guest, made a brief speech describing the early years of the club. She then assisted the hostess Mrs. Waldo Otis, who was a charter member, in cutting the large white cake which was frosted with lavender wisteria blossoms, the club flower. The cake was surrounded with greenery and flanked by lavender tapers in silver and crystal holders.

Co-hostesses were: Mmes. A. E. Voight, H. M. Keefe, Clarence Evans, Herman daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Luke, Sr. of Pass Christian, and Mrs. Sherlyn Breland. Trinity calendars make excellent gifts

Antebellum homes of Pass Christian are featured on attractive calendars published and now on sale by the Women of Trinity Episcopal Church in the Pass.

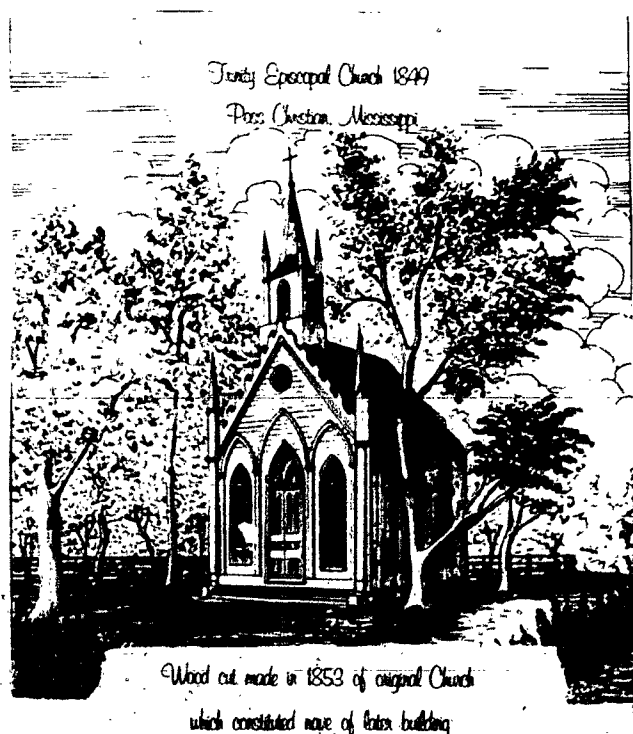

The latest fund raising and culturally oriented project by the women's organization, the 1975 calendars make excellent seasonal gifts, or for any occasion until January. Printed on sepiat mat paper, the calendars are illustrated with line drawings by local artists of 10 Pass Christian antebellum homes, plus the old town library and Trinity Church.

The pen and ink drawings are beautifully rendered and can be cut out and used in a variety of ways when the calendars are outdated.

The calendars are available for sale at a modest price of $3 at the Trinity Church Parish House, or one may call Mrs. Mrs. Donald Rogers at 452-H. W. Cooper at 452-2572, or 452-1921.

Senior Citizens Happenings

Don Mauffray
Recreation Director

The swinging Senior Citizens of Pearlington took a tour of Cajun Country aboard a chartered bus from the Sand Hill Bus Lines on Wednesday, October 9. The bus left the Pearlington Community Center at 8:30 a.m.

At the first signal light on Chef Menteur, Mr. Dick Rawlings, the most accommodating and efficient driver one could ask for, actually got off the bus and pretended to ask for a ride with a motorist who had also stopped for the red light. Mr. Rawlings said that this group was just too much. However, he reboarded the bus and we continued on our way with him murmuring, "Y'all are just too much." Irma Cuevas and her sister Rita kept everyone laughing the whole trip.

In Houma, we went to City Park where everyone spread picnic lunches together; and, my, what a spread it was! It seems everyone brought enough to feed a dozen other besides themselves.

From Houma, we took off for Thibodaux where we saw beautiful fields of sugar cane which, incidentally, didn't seem to be damaged as badly by Hurricane Carmen as the news services would have us believe. We took Highway No. 1 out of Thibodaux. This highway follows parallel to Bayou Lafourche. It is a beautiful drive with the sugar cane fields, stately homes, gardens, etc.

As we approached New Orleans on the return trip, Mr. Rawlings asked if we wanted to go to the French Market. The 'yeas' were unanimous. Several of the ladies went shopping for fresh produce. Then everyone enjoyed "cafe au lait et bignets."

We returned to Pearlington at 5:30 p.m. and everyone returned home asking, "When are we gonna do this again?"

Don't forget the public is invited to our bingo games at the Valena C. Jones Center on Oct. 10th at 7:30 p.m. The proceeds from these benefits are used by the senior citizens for dinners, trips, birthday parties, etc. We need the support of everyone so come and join the fun and help the seniors at the same time. If anyone has a used pool table to spare, the Day Care Center could certainly make good use of it. Perhaps someone could even loan the Center one if they don't want to make an outright gift.

We are still wanting some more Senior Citizens to join our Quilting Bee on Thursdays at 1:30 p.m. Christmas decorations project on Fridays at 9:30 a.m. and square dancing on Fridays from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Come join in the fun.

REMODELING IDEAS FOR THE ONE-BATHROOM FAMILY

If you are considering remodeling an existing bathroom or building an addition to your home that includes a bathroom, you already know that the remodeling expense for a bathroom is second only to a kitchen. It is to your advantage if you have or can build a bedroom with a full or half bath and have another bathroom elsewhere.

Perhaps being a two-bathroom family isn't feasible because of space limitations or budget considerations. There are alternatives that will provide better layout or additional space so that one bathroom can more comfortably serve the entire family.

To make the best use of a bathroom with heavy traffic patterns, compartmenting is an excellent solution. With this plan, the room is divided with each of the main fixtures separated or with the toilet and tub or stall shower partitioned off from the wash-basin area. The obvious advantage is that more than one person use the bathroom and still have privacy.

If space is no problem dividing off can take on grand proportions with permanent walls dividing different areas. Decorative plastic or wood paneling on poles may also be used.

However, it is more likely that space is at a premium. Make use of space savers. Use pocket doors that slide into the walls to partition. A pocket door is also handy to make an entrance from the bathroom to an adjoining bedroom. Thus, if you can't have a private bathroom, you can at least have a separate access. Other space savers include tubs or shower stalls, cabinets and shelves built into the hollow wall space, tiered and swinging arm towel racks and rings, vanity basins in may sizes—even to fit into corners—or custom built with countertop and underneath storage. Include a double basin if possible, especially for a large family. Add good lighting overhead and on both sides of mirrors for shadow-free grooming.

Put in adequate outlets for grooming aids, a ventilation unit to reduce moisture buildup and to keep air fresh, and, if you wish, a heat lamp for warmth while drying off after bathing.

The W hosts workshop

Members of women's clubs from across the state will gather at Mississippi University for Women in Columbus Oct. 24 for the 15th annual Ray A. Furr Public Relations Workshop.

Named in honor of the late Ray A. Furr, former head of the journalism department and director of public information at The W, the day-long meeting will instruct club women on how to improve public relations procedures.

Gov. William Waller, who will speak on "Mississippi Club Women and Mississippi" at 12:30 p.m. in the Hogarth Student Center, will join eight journalists from Mississippi and neighboring states as program participants.

Other speakers include Mary Alice Bookhart, women's editor for The Clarion Ledger, Jackson's morning newspaper; Jim Buffington, president of the Mississippi Broadcasters Association; Mark Ledbetter, news director of television station WTVB in Tupelo; and Nancy Longnecker, associated with Southern General Electric Cablevision on the Gulf Coast.

M.U.W. students will provide entertainment - including a performance by the pop group the Meh Ladies and a luncheon and style show presentation by the International Modeling Squad. Awards will be given to garden clubs for outstanding public relations programs. Competing clubs will be judged according to size of hometown.

Reservations for the workshop must be made by Oct. 18. Registration fee for the entire meeting including the luncheon is $7, said Dr. Harold Wilson, head of the journalism department at The W. Cost of the luncheon only is $3.25 for non-students and $1.50 for students. Sponsors of the workshop are the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs, the Garden Clubs of Mississippi Inc. and the department of journalism and the department of public information at The W.

Group life now available to vets

Vietnam-era veterans discharged during a four-year period before Aug. 1 have until Aug. 1, 1975, to apply for low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI), according to Marilyn J. Cook, Assistant Veterans Administration Center director for Regional Office. An estimated 2.7 million veterans separated from April 2, 1970, through July 31, 1974, are eligible for the insurance. It is designed as interim protection during readjustment to civilian life.

Servicemen discharged since Aug. 1 will receive application forms automatically, Cook added.

Nonrenewable, five-year term coverage is available in $5,000 increments up to $20,000. Monthly premium for the maximum coverage is $3.40 for veterans aged 34 and under and $6.80 for those 35 and over.

Personnel may convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to VGLI without medical examination, if applications are received within 120 days of separation. Applications after that time must include evidence of good health. This requirement is waived for veterans with VA-rated, service-connected disabilities.

Application forms are available from the Jackson, VA Center at 1500 E. Woodrow Wilson and from veterans service organizations. Completed forms and premiums should be sent to the Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N. J. 07102.

Marine regulations are published

Commercial fishermen who take marine mammals while fishing must be included under a general permit after October 30, 1974, according to the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 was passed to protect, maintain, and if necessary rebuild the populations of marine mammals. The Act, among other things, restricts the taking and importing of marine mammals and marine mammal products.

Because there are times when fishermen might unavoidably take marine mammals during their normal fishing operations, it was necessary to make provisions in the Act which would allow fishermen to take marine mammals incidental to their commercial fishing operations.

A system was established by NMFS-NOAA whereby organizations representing fishermen could apply for a general permit to cover fishing operations using five general categories of fishing gear. Once these general permits had been issued, individual commercial fishermen could be included under the general permit by applying for a certificate of inclusion under one of the five categories.

Conditions of the general permits, and the certificates of inclusion under the permits, require, among other things, that commercial fishermen take special measures, and in some cases use special fishing gear, to avoid injuring or killing marine mammals in their fishing operations. If a marine mammal is killed or injured it must be reported to the National Marine Fisheries Service or a State enforcement agency.

NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service published regulations controlling the incidental taking of marine mammals in the Federal Register on September 5, 1974 to become effective on September 30, 1974. These regulations, as amended, govern the issuance of general permits and certificates of inclusion.

The initial general permits and related certificates of inclusion will be good until December 31, 1975. General permits and certificates issued thereafter will expire on December 31st of the year they are issued.

The five general categories of fishing gear are: towed or dragged gear; encircling gear; yellowfin tuna purse seining; encircling gear; seining other than yellow fin

"Our school is always open to all children regardless of race. In our policies we proclaim that racial segregation is an affront to all Christian people. Bearcat Pete Price (25) goes down after being tripped up by a Tiger defender. Price was a work horse for the Bearcat running attack in Long Beach's 27-0 win over Bay High Friday night in Tiger Stadium.

Snow, Price show Tigers Long Beach running class

by Dan Barber
Echo Sports Editor
The Bay High Tigers had homecoming festivities somewhat dampened Friday night as the Long Beach Bearcats flexed their muscles to rout an ineffective Tiger defense 27-0.

The Tigers, who vainly tried to overcome the depth and power of the Long Beach squad, were simply unable to stop perhaps two of the best running backs in the Gulf Coast Conference, Pete Price and Albert Snow.

Rambling almost at will down the field breaking tackles and bursting through large holes in the Tiger line, opened for them by the physically bruising Bearcat line, Price and Snow accounted for the bulk of the Bearcats' 235 yards rushing. Nothing should be taken away from the Long Beach defense either, which harassed Tiger quarterback Mike Magee all night and frustrated Tiger receivers.

The Bearcats first score came less than three minutes into the first quarter when Price broke a 24 yard run into the end zone with 9:05 left in the first quarter. The touchdown was set up by Bob Richards interception of a Mike Magee pass.

After failing to gain a first down, the Tigers relinquished the ball to the Bearcats at the Long Beach 29 yard line where Bearcats quarterback Tommy McKay engineered another TD before the end of the quarter.

Unleashing a long aerial to Price, McKay and the Bearcats brought the ball to the Tiger 40 yard line and a first down, where McKay promptly got another first down on a handoff to Price to the Tiger 9. Albert Snow accounted for the second Bearcat score as he carried in from the Tiger 5 with 1:05 left in the first quarter. Price added a two point conversion giving the Bearcats a 15-0 first quarter lead.

Late in the second quarter the Tigers threatened after a Magee aerial to Vernon Powell and a personal foul against Long Beach brought the ball to the Bearcat 33 yard line.

Magee then hit Arnold Fairconnetue with a pass at the Bearcat 33, but after gaining another yard on the ground the Tigers could not penetrate no deeper and turned the ball over.

With 2:43 showing on the clock in the first half, McKay handed off to Price who took the ball all the way back to the Tiger goal line for his second TD of the night.

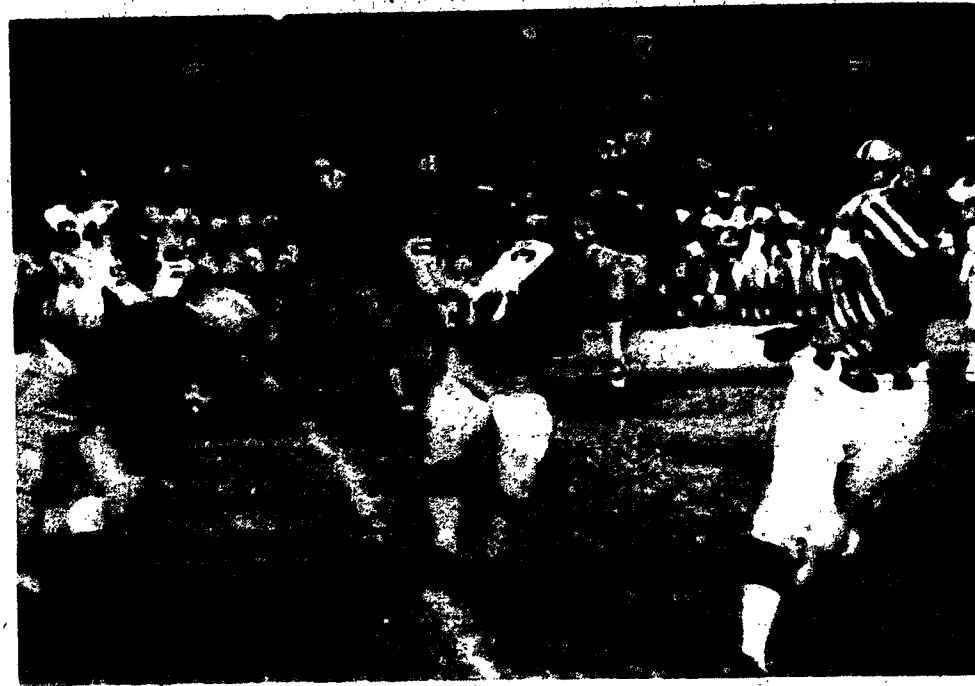

At the end of the half the Bearcats enjoyed a 21-0 lead. The final Bearcat score came in the third quarter with 4:58 on the clock on a 10 yard TD play from McKay to end Mike Spruill. The extra point attempt failed and Long Beach settled on a 27-0 final score.

The Tiger offense was stalled repeatedly in the remainder of the third quarter and in the fourth quarter by pass interceptions and broken plays.

Bearcat running back Albert Snow (30) tries to turn the corner in Friday night's game with Bay High as a raft of Tiger defenders pursue the elusive runner. D'Iberville clubs Rock-A-Chaws

By Edward Favre
The D'Iberville Warriors had an easy time with the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws Friday night at D'Iberville in a Pascagoula River Conference football game. The Rock offense could not get its momentum going and were only able to put one TD on the score board as the powerful warriors posted their fifth win 36-6.

The Warriors, tied with the Pass Christian Pirates for the Conference lead with a 5-0-1 record, scored in each quarter, and could not be contained by the Rocks.

D'Iberville put the first points on the board in the first quarter when Garth Caillavet picked up a fumbled pitchout from Rock quarterback Art Scaffide and ran the ball in from 22-yards out. The extra point attempt from placement was no good.

The Warriors got their second score of the game with 1:06 remaining in the second quarter ending a 71-yard drive with a 10-yard pass to Caillavet from Warrior quarterback Ray Hamel. Hamel carried the ball for the two point conversion.

Stanislaus got on the scoreboard in the second quarter when running back Mike Russell took a handoff from quarterback Art Scaffide and raced in from 18 yards. The extra point attempt failed.

and D'Iberville held a 14-6 lead at halftime.

D'Iberville got two TD's in the third quarter. The first score was by Hamel on a quarterback sneak from one yard out climaxing a 65 yard drive. The point after was no good.

With two seconds left in the third quarter, Caillavet picked up his third TD of the game on a 12-yard run. Hamel passed to Raymond for the two point conversion giving the Warriors a 28-6 lead at the end of the third quarter.

The final score of the game came with 3:17 remaining. Caillavet got his fourth touchdown of the game on a three yard run. The big play of the final scoring drive was a 50-yard run from Hamel to split end Butch Husley. Arnie Quave ran for the two point conversion making the final score 36-6.

Cuevas is Jaycee Bowl chairman

Charles Parker, president of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees, has announced the appointment of Sam Cuevas as chairman of the Fifth Annual Jaycee Bowl Game Classic.

The annual game was begun in 1970 to establish a scholarship fund from the game proceeds for deserving high school seniors from the county high schools. Since 1970 the Bay St. Louis Jaycees have been privileged to award 12 scholarships to deserving students to attend the college of their choice.

The difficult task of team selection is now underway. The game is planned for sometime in November.

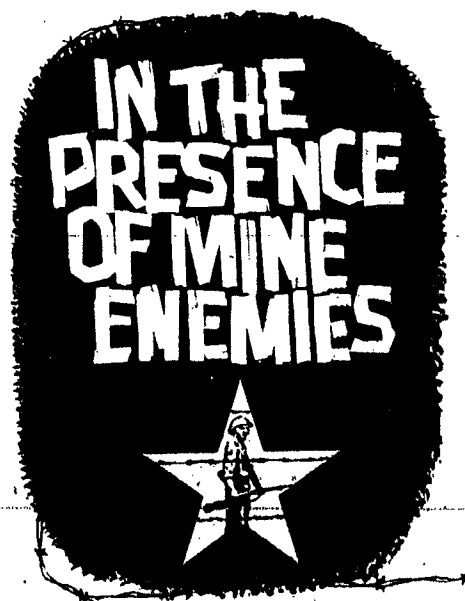

The Bowl Game Queen and her court are selected on the basis of advertising sold by contestants for the bowl game program. This contest is now under way.

Freshman blossoms first fall at UM

UNIVERSITY, Miss., — Memphis freshman Curtis Weathers thought all summer long about how he could gain a spot on Ole Miss' football team this fall.

Eighty miles south and two months later, now it's someone else's worry — about halting the sticky fingered rookie's emergence as one of the most promising tight ends in Southeastern football circles.

Halfway thru the 1974 grid harvest, Weathers is among the SEC's top pass receivers, catching 13 for 190 yards. Statistically, he ranks second in number caught and total yardage — in both departments behind Florida senior Lee McGriff — and third in average number caught per game.

Amazing for a freshman? Yes, and no.

Yes, considering he was cast in a position wholly foreign to his prep upbringing and has missed but a handful of snaps from center all year long.

No, reflecting on a star-studded high school career where he was recognized as Most Valuable in three different sports and erected records at almost every layover.

His tally sheet reveals two grabs for 22 yards against Missouri; two for 35 vs. Memphis State; three for 30 vs. Southern Miss; four for 76 vs. Alabama and two for 27 against Georgia.

Rebel coaches prodded the 6-5 and 205 Weathers to line up at tight end soon after his mid-August arrival on campus. Strictly a wingback-split end-linebacker throughout high school, it's doubtful he'll stray hence — unless it's for a routine survey of opposing defensive backfields.

Tennis courts almost complete at PR

POPLARVILLE — In two weeks, weather permitting, students and faculty of Pearl River Junior College will be able to play tennis on three courts adjacent to the new physical education building. The courts will be fenced and lighted, and will have a modern tarten type surface. President Marvin White hoped for an earlier opening of the courts, but due to continuous rain, the construction of the project was delayed.

Contract negotiations with the highway department also faltered when it was discovered that the highway department was not permitted under Mississippi State Law to negotiate construction jobs with public institutions. The college was forced to solicit the State Building Commission to contract the services of the highway department.

continues on a new physical education building. The only foreseeable delay, according to White, is the lack of tubular steel for the backboard support, which is not expected until February.

White said temporary backboards would probably be used in order to put the building to full use.

Committees are set

Sam Cuevas, 1975 Jaycee Bowl Game Chairman, announces the following committee appointments for the scholarship program: Larry Burrage, Co-Chairman; Sheldon Seuzeneau, Programs; Jerry Seuzeneau, Trophies; Charles Parker, Team Selection; Robert Compretta, Concessions, Pre-Game and Half Time Activities; David Williams;

fall and winter. With 24 receptions for 400 yards and nine touchdowns, he sparked Bishop Byrne to the Memphis AA Conference football championship capturing All-Metro, All-County and second team allstate recognition.

He won similar accolades in basketball, pacing the city in rebounding and earning all-league honors as a center-forward.

"I'm still not playing as well as I think I can," said Weathers, who thinks he could add up to 15 pounds in off-season training with no loss of effectiveness and speed. "My blocking needs to get better and I think that will come. More than anything right now, I need to improve my self-discipline and fundamentals."

Can a freshman appreciate the trauma of last week's disaster at the hands of Georgia?

"I believe the loss affects me as much as anyone else on the team," he said. "We never got beat that bad in high school and it sure wasn't any fun out there Saturday. We'll be back though. There's a lot of football still left in this season."

And for Curtis Weathers, the next and the next and the next.

Ole Miss entertains Carolina Gamecocks in homecoming tilt

UNIVERSITY, MISS. — With Georgia handing Ole Miss its worst shutout loss in 41 years, the Johnny Rebs have winless South Carolina on their hands here Saturday in bidding for a break-even campaign after six games.

In its second and last campus show of the season,

Coach Ken Cooper's young team will celebrate Homecoming with the game against the Gamecocks slated for a 1:30 p.m. kickoff in Hemingway Stadium. Way back in 1930, Ed Walker's first Ole Miss team butchered Union 64-0 in its inaugural game. A week later — and the date was Oct. 4 — Alabama rocked the Rebels by an identical score.

Since, 47-0 defeats at the hands of Tennessee in 1938 and Kentucky in 1949 were the worst shutout losses for Ole Miss teams.

For the lone comparative note, Georgia blasted Carolina 52-14 a fortnight ahead of last Saturday's scorcher in Athens.

The Gamecocks, with high hopes starting the season, have been beaten by Georgia Tech (35-20), Duke (20-14), Georgia, Houston (24-14) and Virginia Tech in a battle of winless teams last Saturday night, 31-17. The Duke, Houston and VPI losses were registered at Columbia.

Despite the losses, Carolina's offense — and its the veer — has been high octane. The veer lineup the rest of the season for the Rebels sends them against the Gamecocks, Vanderbilt, LSU, Tennessee and Mississippi State ahead of the finale with Tulane in New Orleans Nov. 30. The Wave is a power-I outfit.

The onesided loss to Georgia can be attributed to Bulldog muscle and Bulldog speed. The veer-oriented Georgians averaged better than 250 pounds across their interior lines. And they broke for 74, 79, 86 and 9 yards after intermission for four touchdowns in as many plays.

New Ole Miss coach Ken Cooper said it best with, "With the possible exception of the center and quarterback positions, Georgia is a better, more physical offensive football team than Alabama."

Defense has been the Bulldog problem all season.

Keydet Coach Bob Thalman began the year with seasoned defensive (eight starters back) and offensive (nine starters back) units.

The Keydets have won over Furman, Davidson and Virginia Tech, and they lost to Vanderbilt.

Southern and VMI have met three times before, with the Eagles scoring wins in all three games. Southern barely stopped the Keydets by a 3-0 count in 1965 but took fairly easy wins in '66 and '71.

While the Keydets were beating the Citadel last week, the Eagles were posting a 39-10 victory over Texas Arlington in Jackson.

AUTO GRANTS DROP
Veterans Administration expenditures for auto grants and adaptive equipment in fiscal year 1974 decreased 27 per cent from the previous year and 53 per cent from fiscal year 1972, reflecting the end of military operations in Southeast Asia.

'73 accident toll equals that of '72

The accidental death total in 1973 was 17,000, which was virtually the same as in 1972, according to the National Safety Council.

There were 11.5 million disabling injuries, the council says, and the total costs of accidents amounted to $41.5 billion.

Freshman blossoms first fall at UM

UNIVERSITY, Miss., — Memphis freshman Curtis Weathers thought all summer long about how he could gain a spot on Ole Miss' football team this fall.

Eighty miles south and two months later, now it's someone else's worry — about halting the sticky fingered rookie's emergence as one of the most promising tight ends in Southeastern football circles.

Halfway thru the 1974 grid harvest, Weathers is among the SEC's top pass receivers, catching 13 for 190 yards. Statistically, he ranks second in number caught and total yardage — in both departments behind Florida senior Lee McGriff — and third in average number caught per game. — Amazing for a freshman? Yes, and no.

Yes, considering he was cast in a position wholly foreign to his prep upbringing and has missed but a handful of snaps from center all year long.

No, reflecting on a star-studded high school career where he was recognized as Most Valuable in three different sports and erected records at almost every layover.

His tally sheet reveals two grabs for 22 yards against Missouri; two for 35 vs. Memphis State; three for 30 vs. Southern Miss; four for 76 vs. Alabama and two for 27 against Georgia.

Rebel coaches prodded the 6-5 and 205 Weathers to line up at tight end soon after his mid-August arrival on campus. Strictly a wingback-split end-linebacker throughout high school, it's doubtful he'll stray hence — unless it's for a routine survey of opposing defensive backfields.

Tennis courts almost complete at PR

POPLARVILLE — In two weeks, weather permitting, students and faculty of Pearl River Junior College will be able to play tennis on three courts adjacent to the new physical education building. The courts will be fenced and lighted, and will have a modern tarten type surface. President Marvin White hoped for an earlier opening of the courts, but due to continuous rain, the construction of the project was delayed.

Contract negotiations with the highway department also faltered when it was discovered that the highway department was not permitted under Mississippi State Law to negotiate construction jobs with public institutions. The college was forced to solicit the State Building Commission to contract the services of the highway department.

"It never really entered my mind I would be starting now," said Weathers, who admits surprise at his strong Conference showing. "I just wanted to make the team. I'm glad to have some good figures to show for it, but I just try to catch the ball when it's thrown my way."

More and more missiles are being arched in his direction weekly. Of the 38 passes caught by Reb receivers, the slithery rookie has nabbed a smidgen more than one-third of the total.

Weathers credits much of his football progress to a sensational senior track season at Bishop Byrne, where he was selected Most Valuable in football, basketball and track.

"My track coach was after me all the time to try the decathlon," he explained. "I didn't really make up my mind until the middle of the year to try it. Maybe if I had decided sooner I could have done a little better."

Instead, all he did in half a spring was to set seven new school track records, win the West-Tennessee Regional Decathlon title and finish second in state competition.

But he was just as busy last fall and winter. With 24 receptions for 400 yards and nine touchdowns, he sparked Bishop Byrne to the Memphis AA Conference football championship capturing All-Metro, All-County and second team allstate recognition.

He won similar accolades in basketball, pacing the city in rebounding and earning all-league honors as a center-forward.

"I'm still not playing as well as I think I can," said Weathers, who thinks he could add up to 15 pounds in off-season training with no loss of effectiveness and speed. "My blocking needs to get better and I think that will come. More than anything right now, I need to improve my self-discipline and fundamentals."

Can a freshman appreciate the trauma of last week's disaster at the hands of Georgia?

And for Curtis Weathers, the next and the next and the next.

Ole Miss entertains Carolina Gamecocks in homecoming tilt

UNIVERSITY, MISS., — With Georgia handing Ole Miss its worst shutout loss in 44 years, the Johnny Rebs have winless South Carolina on their hands here Saturday in bidding for a break-even campaign after six games.

In its second and last campus show of the season,

Mobile to host USM-VMI

HATTIESBURG — The University of Southern Mississippi Golden Eagles have two "home" games scheduled in nearby Ladd Memorial Stadium in Mobile, Ala. where they will tangle with Virginia Military Institute in the first one at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The VMI Keydets, a 20-9 winner over the Citadel last week, lead the Southern Conference with a 3-0 loop record and boast an overall record of 4-1.

VMI's defensive ability got wide acclaim two weeks ago when Keydet linebacker John Willison was chosen as the Associated Press national Lineman of the Week for his performance in his team's 22-17 win over Virginia Tech in the Tobacco Bowl.

Keydet Coach Bob Thalman began the year with seasoned defensive (eight starters back) and offensive (nine starters back) units.

The Keydets have won over Furman, Davidson and Virginia Tech, and they lost to Vanderbilt.

Southern and VMI have met three times before, with the Eagles scoring wins in all three games. Southern barely stopped the Keydets by a 3-0 count in 1965 but took fairly easy wins in '66 and '71.

While the Keydets were beating the Citadel last week, the Eagles were posting a 39-10 victory over Texas A&M in Jackson.

Coach Ken Cooper's young team will celebrate Homecoming with the game against the Gamecocks slated for a 1:30 p.m. kickoff in Hemingway Stadium.

Way back in 1930, Ed Walker's first Ole Miss team butchered Union 64-0 in its inaugural game. A week later — and the date was Oct. 4 — Alabama rocked the Rebels by an identical score.

Since, 47-0 defeats at the hands of Tennessee in 1938 and Kentucky in 1949 were the worst shutout losses for Ole Miss teams.

For the lone comparative note, Georgia blasted Carolina 52-14 a fortnight ahead of last Saturday's scorcher in Athens.

The Gamecocks, with high hopes starting the season, have been beaten by Georgia Tech (35-20), Duke (20-14), Georgia, Houston (24-14) and Virginia Tech in a battle of winless teams last Saturday night, 31-17. The Duke, Houston and VPI losses were registered at Columbia.

Despite the losses, Carolina's offense — and its the veer — has been high octane. The veer lineup the rest of the season for the Rebs sends them against the Gamecocks, Vanderbilt, LSU, Tennessee and Mississippi State ahead of the finale with Tulane in New Orleans Nov. 30. The Wave is a power-I outfit.

The onesided loss to Georgia can be attributed to Bulldog muscle and Bulldog speed. The veer-oriented Georgians averaged better than 250 pounds across their interior lines. And they broke for 74, 79, 86 and 9 yards after intermission for four touchdowns in as many plays.

New Ole Miss coach Ken Cooper said it best with, "With the possible exception of the center and quarterback positions, Georgia is a better, more physical offensive football team than Alabama."

Defense has been the Bulldog problem all season.

But they shored up a lot of holes against the Rebs with — so they reported — their best game of the season.

The clash did not supplement the Rebel injury list, and offensive guard Sam Corroero and linebacker Mackey McKinzie, both starters against Alabama, are expected back on the practice field this week.

Neither Reb made the trip to Athens. Corroero is nursing a pulled groin muscle and McKinzie a bruised back.

Defensive tackle starter Pete Robertson, sidelined with a shoulder injury, will not rejoin the squad in time for Saturday's skirmish with Carolina.

Saturday's game will mark South Carolina's first football visit into Mississippi. Only once before has Carolina coach Paul Dietzel appeared in Oxford, in 1960 when his LSU team notched a 6-6 tie against that year's Southeastern Conference and national (FWAA) champions, the only blemish on the Rebel record. Center Allen Green had to boot a 41-yard field goal with six seconds remaining to assure that deadlock.

against that year's Southeastern Conference and national (FWAA) champions, the only blemish on the Rebel record. Center Allen Green had to boot a 41-yard field goal with six seconds remaining to assure that deadlock.

Women's intuition makes bums of sportscasters

The game of football has made a "bum" out of the so-called "sports experts". Johnny Erp of Pass Christian, a retired TV and radio NBC sportscaster, told the Long Beach Civitan Club and its women visitors at its monthly dinner meeting at the Ramada Inn recently.

Erp said the kid next door or even his mom can pick winners nowadays as well, if not better, than the veteran who makes his living covering such events. He cited as proof that in a recent New Orleans Time-Picayune football score contest, 13 of the 25 winners guessing the correct wins were women. They had all forecast the correct victories and the top prize went to a woman.

Erp, who roamed the sports and celebrity beat with TV cameras and a radio mike for the National Broadcasting Company in Chicago for 32 years before his retirement to the Gulf Coast four years ago, said this current World Series also brought back memories of one of his fondest interviews — a chat with the famed Babe Ruth, the home run king of the majors.

In a World Series between his team, the New York Yankees, and the Chicago Cubs, Ruth, enraged at the Cubs, once got so angry during the series, he stopped the play while he was at bat — and screamed at the Cub pitcher he was gonna knock the next pitch out of Wrigley Field for a home run. He had two strikes on him at the time. True to his word, Ruth slammed the next pitch out of the park. This historic feat was attested to by many, including a Cub pitcher, Guy "Mudcat" Bush from Mississippi.

And the veteran NBC sportscaster pointed out that paying income taxes is nothing new, even if President Ford's latest plan makes it seem so. Former world's heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, in a joint interview with Jack Dempsey, the man he beat for the title, moaned to Erp that from his million dollar share of the gate, he had to pay 25 percent to the Internal Revenue men income taxes. That was at least 40 years ago.

Tom Meighen, sergeant-at-arms, led the group in the pledge to the American flag and Ken Ward, club chaplain, gave the invocation.

Bill Norris, chairman of the Junior Civitan Committee, announced that the Long Beach High School Junior Civitan Club planned to contact individual Long Beach residents to sell American flags, furnish and put up the necessary brackets, to be flown on all holidays and other special occasions.

Jack Nail, lieutenant governor of the Magnolia Civitan District, from Picayune, Miss., was the guest of honor at the meeting.

Erp was introduced by Sam Lauderdale, director of the Long Beach Senior Citizens Activities.

Team to compile Gulf Coast data

A research team from the University of Southern Mississippi will take a close look at information about the Mississippi Gulf Coast, from Waveland to Pascagoula.

The six-man team from the geography department at USM will catalogue and correlate data on the coast through a $26,000 grant by the Mississippi Marine Resources Council.

Dr. Robert W. Wales, task coordinator, said the information gathered should prove valuable to county planning and development agencies in Jackson, Harrison and Hancock counties.

"We will be compiling data on transportation, sewage facilities, wetlands ecology, ocean currents, air quality, topography and minerals, and population and economic statistics," Dr. Wales said. The study is expected to last about eight months.

The task force includes Dr. Wales, Dr. W. T. Meador Jr., Dr. Ralph D. Cross, Tim Traylor, all from the geography department at USM, and two students, Sam Keyes of Jackson and Van McWhorter, a graduate student from Hattiesburg.

Sugar Bowl Invitational dedicated to Adolph Rupp

NEW ORLEANS — Adolph Rupp, the winningest coach in college basketball, will be honored by the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association during its 1974-75 carnival of sports in December, it was announced recently.

Elliott Laudeman, chairman of the Sugar Bowl basketball committee, will go to Lexington, Kentucky on October 19 to extend a formal invitation to the former Kentucky head basketball coach to attend the week-long athletic activities beginning December 28th.

"We are dedicating the 1974 Sugar Bowl basketball tournament, in which teams from the University of Alabama, Furman University, LaSalle College and University of Houston will be appearing, to Coach Rupp," announced Laudeman. "We are honoring Coach Rupp for his fine contribution to college basketball and particularly to the Sugar Bowl program," he added.

Coach and Mrs. Rupp will be guests of the Sugar Bowl during their entire stay in New Orleans, and Coach Rupp will be the guest of honor at the Sugar Bowl basketball awards banquet which will be held on December 28th.

Rupp, who led his Kentucky Wildcats to five Sugar Bowl tournament championships (1937, 1939, 1949, 1956 and 1963), served as coach of the Wildcats for 42 years and amassed a record of 879 victories and 190 losses for an unparalleled percentage of better than 82.2 percent against major competition. He retired in June, 1972.

Respected throughout the nation for his great Wildcat teams, he is best remembered here for his personal duels with Ed Hickey and St. Louis Billikens and with Hank Iba and the then Oklahoma A&M Aggies in the mid-40's.

NATURE'S HORN OF PLENTY

Life takes on a new dimension during Fall when nature's bountiful crop of wild fruits and nuts is ready for harvest. If you've never experienced the mouth-puckering taste of a green persimmon, or the tangy freshness of ripe wild grapes, there's a treat waiting for the picking on a nearby lake.

Although you should always seek permission to enter private lands, Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department reminds us that most large reservoirs are ringed by a belt of public-owned land. This is usually under control of the Corps of Engineers, but often administered by other federal or state agencies.

The important thing is that these lands are available for your use, and they often contain an abundance of natural wild foods.

Persimmons are one of nature's most desired fruits — if they are sweet. They're not ripe until after the first frost when the cold causes the starch content to ferment slightly and become sugar.

Use your boat to look for persimmon trees in old fields, and along hills bordering flooded bottom lands. Ripe persimmons can be eaten right from the tree. They are also used in bread and cake recipes, and they can be packed in sugar and saved for later use.

Hickory nuts, walnuts, beech nuts and pecans are common trees throughout much of the Midwest and East. Walnut, pecan, and beech nut trees prefer rich bottom lands, while hickory trees grow on the hills away from the water. Nuts can be removed from the hulls and stored in a refrigerator until needed for cookies, cakes and other dishes.

Wild grapes are also plentiful. Their vines can be spotted growing on other trees, and although the fruit is often high in the host tree, they're worth the effort to retrieve. Grapes are used for making jam and jelly, and some find the wild variety ideal for making wine.

One final thought from the Mercury staff is to visit a bookstore or library and obtain copies of books describing wild trees and shrubs that grow in your part of the country.

Research launched on nerve illness

A $1.155 million research probe has been launched by American and British scientists at the northern tip of Britain to attempt to find the cause for multiple sclerosis, a disease of the central nervous system which cripples thousands of sufferers.

The scientists will study more than 600 people in Orkney, Shetlands and Caithness, where there are three times the average number of victims of MS, which has no known cure.

Health & Beauty Briefs

Laugh lines, under the eye pouches and wrinkled skin under the chin are the most frequent symptoms that send older women to the plastic surgeon, according to a new book called "Ageless Aging." Men go for such operations most often for sagging eyelids, a frown between the eyebrows, or a "turkey gobbler neck."

As hair grays, it becomes thicker and coarser. It's scalp trouble that brings on early grey hair, author Ruth Winter writes. Injury or disease of the nervous system sometimes causes graying patterns, she adds.

Brothers battle for championship

Recent activities at Mobile Greyhound Park in Mobile included the running of the second Annual Juvenile Stake. A field of 32 young greyhounds, who had won their first racing career start at the track, was narrowed to eight finalists via two elimination rounds.

Wearing the crown is Air Traffic of the Clem Zwack Kennel, but he had to battle his two November 1972 littermates (J.P.'s-Kate) for the honor as Steel Cap and Stream Way ran second and third. In the young history of the track it is the first time a kennel, or for that matter a litter, had a 1-2-3 finish in a major stake race. On hand to make the award to Clem Zwack for Air Traffic was Miss Mobile Greyhound Park of 1974, Linda Booth.

Racing continues at MGP in the 1974 extended season under the banner of the Azalea

City Racing Club. As an added challenge to tax the talents of the handicappers, many new greyhounds, such as Daytona Beach Kennel Club star Danny Morgan and E. D.'s Sonny of the Pensacola Greyhound Park to name just a couple will be testing the Mobile turf within the next few days. The new kennels at the track include those of W. E. Etheridge, White Shadows, and the V.E. Lindstrom from Pensacola, the Huron Kennel from the Jefferson County Kennel Club at Monticello, Fla., and the Pat Alterio and Val Rufo Kennels.

There has been perfect weather for the past week. No rain, plenty sunshine and fair winds which helped to make all kinds of fishing good. Speckles, red fish and other salt water fish have been caught most everywhere. Bass (green trout) and perch have been striking perfusely up in the bayous and rivers. Flounders have been caught on the hook and line mostly out front, down by Bayou Caddy and in Heron Bay and at the mouth of Pearl River where Wop Glover and a friend speared several the other night, one weighing 8½ pounds.

Dove hunting has been fair to middling. The hunting of doves for the first segment closed Sunday, Oct. 13th and opens for the 2nd segment on Nov. 9th.

The duck and geese seasons will open soon. Anxious hunters are awaiting these opening dates. More on this later.

Louisiana's hunting seasons for squirrels and rabbits opened October 5 and pre-season surveys by commission biologists indicate that hunting prospects are bright for both seasons.

Attention is called to the fact that daily bag and possession limits for both squirrels and rabbits were the same—eight daily with 16 in possession. Shooting hours for resident game are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Use of shotguns larger than 10 gauge or capable of holding more than three shells are prohibited.

The season on squirrels will extend through January 12, while the rabbit season will extend through February 28.

Another ardent fisherman is Claude Hogan of Waveland. He has been catching plenty reds and speckles out in the 1a marsh. Claude is an expert at catching salt water fish and has been at it a long time.

Understand Paul Egloff has been on the sick list recently. Hurry and get well, fellow.

Sheldon Seuzeneau celebrated another birthday on October 7th. Had a party given by his friends. Sheldon doesn't go much for fishing. Golf is his favorite sport.

Dick Mestayer is going back to fishing in a big way. He has purchased a beauty of a houseboat which he will share with his friends. There will be plenty fishing and everything. How about that, Buddy?

Horace Ruhr is a practical joker. But this is no joke. He and his hunting partners, Gerald Kennedy and Norvin Penrose are busy building duck blinds for the coming duck season. They expect some good shooting soon. All are among the best when it comes to duck hunting.

USM has new program

New students planning to enter the University of Southern Mississippi in future quarters will be assisted by a new program to begin Oct. 22, according to Gene D. Saucier, dean of special academic services.

The program involves pre-registration to be held for new students during the six weeks immediately preceding each quarter.

Staff members of the administrative office will escort students through the entire registration process including evaluation of high school or junior college credits, getting class cards, visiting faculty advisers, having identification cards made, and all other required registration procedures.

Mrs. Rebecca Brechtel, admissions counselor, will be in charge of handling pre-registration. She will be assisted by Mrs. Maudie McInnis, evaluations clerk.

For additional information, students may telephone AC601, 266-7133 or 266-7114 or write The Career University, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39401.

Met two fellows gar hunting in an unusual way. They use fishing poles that float on the water with a big hook and line, baited with carp about 12 inches long. The gars when caught swim around until picked up. Didn't know there was a market for gars in Louisiana. The buying price is 40 cents a pound. We learn something new every day.

We learned how to spell "cucuzzi" (the Italian squash). Had it spelled wrong in this column last week.

Was with regret we read of the death of Frank Embrey last Saturday. He was one of our best fishermen and lived on Washington St. His age was 75.

Harris Boudreaux is still catching some shrimp off the seawall. He said he thinks they will be coming in a little later.

Pat Haggerty paid us a visit Saturday. Pat is an ardent fisherman and goes mostly for salt water fish. His favorite fishing grounds is Del La Croix Island. Caught some beautiful reds and specks last week, coming over one day to try his luck at fly fishing with me.

Donald Carr and John Genin took a group of boys camping over the weekend. Fishing was the main idea. Think they camped at Bogue Homa up Pearl River. Had a ball, the boys said.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dahlstrom from Texas visited friends at the Bay over the weekend. Good to be back at my old stomping grounds, he said.

Pretty good size speckle trout are being caught in Bayou Caddy proper as well as red fish. They are being caught mostly with live shrimp.

Was a pleasure to have some old friends visit us over the weekend. Bob and Noone Fitzgibbons from Michigan came down to visit. Noone's brothers, Jimmy and John Ryan and families. Were a sight for sore eyes. Bob doesn't fish much but hunts deer and small game. They have been away for 10 years.

Another pair of Diamondhead expert fishermen are Dick Merritt and Wally Pack. They love to fish with croakers but in the meantime use shrimp and artificial baits. These two go fishing on every occasion. Found out that they are real sportsmen.

J. C. and J. C. make quite a fishing duo. 3 full ice chests of big "log" trout were caught by J. C. Kuenenn of Diamondhead and J. C. Baxter of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club in the 1a Marshes Thursday. No sense asking them - they won't tell you where they get 'em.

Joe Cook Kellar claims he was reared in the Honey Island Swamp. Knows it like a book. Hunting wild turkeys is his specialty. He finds out where they roost, and gets them when they fly to the ground to feed. That's one way to turkey hunt.

Catching hard crabs is a lot of fun and profitable. Crabs can be caught most anywhere. A couple of nets is all that is needed to catch them. In our way of thinking fish heads are the best bait. They are tough, stay on the line better and easy to handle.

A good place to go is down Bayou Caddy way or Cedar Point. Believe it or not most of our bayous are full of crabs. A couple of nets, with floats, put out while fishing will supply the family with crabs to eat or to make delicious gumbo. Try it.

Spawning for bass is one of the latest innovations in winter fishing. The new technique got its start in some of the Ozark lakes where ardent anglers grew tired of waiting around all winter for something to do.

They began experimenting and came up with several methods of fishing spoons that take bass during cold weather.

And information reaching Mercury outdoors' fishing department indicates that most of the bass taken during the cold months are big fish—often much larger than those caught during the rest of the year.

A favorite method of spooning is to locate old roadbeds and fence-lines that are now flooded. These harbor big bass, and the idea is to cast beyond them, then retrieve over them with slow flutters of the spoon.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - This happy looking fellow is Arnold Lowe, new owner of LaFrance's Fishing Camp. Originally from Hattiesburg, Arnold is a newcomer to this area and when he finds time does some fishing himself.

Farmers shackled

The president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation Friday expressed grave concern over export trade developments this week as the U. S. department of agriculture issued guidelines to exporters which require prior approval for farm exports.

Hugh M. Arant of Ruleville said Mississippi farmers will be hard hit directly and indirectly since 75 percent of Mississippi's soybean production is for the export market.

"This destroys the free market," Arant said, "because under the guidelines announced this week farmers will be put in the position of being shackled in a maze of federal red tape and insurmountable barriers. This amounts to a betrayal of American farmers who increased plantings this year despite inflated costs and shortages of fertilizer and other materials with the assurance of the administration that there would be a free world market."

Mississippi soybean prospects as of September 1, at 48,450,000 bushels, is 20 percent less than the record high produced last year and more than the 1972 crop. Most of our production goes through Mississippi River and Gulf ports which will be affected in many ways by the cutback, Arant added.

The Farm Bureau spokesman said the so-called "voluntary" export controls are not only damaging to farmers, but also to the American economy since agricultural exports have played a major role in improving the nation's balance of payments.

HOT FISHING IN COLD WEATHER

With cold weather just ahead, many anglers are thinking about storing their fishing gear until next spring. This could be the biggest mistake of the year, since much good fishing awaits those who are interested enough to learn some new methods, and acquire a little extra clothing.
